DON

Mrs. Winters
you are one of the most wonderful persons and teachers I've ever known. The only thing I regret now is that you won't be teaching Gym next semester.
I wish you all the luck in the future, and all your wants fulfilled.

Mrs. Winters,
your nuts. I am glad I have gotten to know you better this past year. I hope we can remain friends for a long time. There were times when I thought you didn't like me. (you probably didn't).
I hope we can remain friends for along time.

Love Always Sybil

Mrs. Winters,
I think you're a great teacher & to give you feel very close to give this part consolation. I thank you for your attitude. I am a very cheerful for choosing to be a gym assistant. I hope I'll get to see you after graduation.

The Difference is

Daring to be intelligently, delightfully different, Continental declare their loyal devotion to George Washington High School . . . They merge their various backgrounds and interests to form a single unit. The '61 POST staff strives to present the tale of these differences.

Hey! Hey! Loyal Continentals "stand up" to cheer our team to another victory, while team members bring recognition to our school.

"Twenty votes for—" Reading back results of the senior election is senior Karen Turner.

"Vote for me!" Ken Corey and Jim Loviscek each try to persuade Paulette Huff for her vote during senior class elections.

... Adding loyalty to tradition,

Realizing the demands of society, pupils strive to advance their knowledge through experiences obtained in four years at Washington. These years become more profitable as Continentals develop loyalty at home and at school.

"Ouch!" Mrs. Rosemary Winters assists Robert Clark, homecoming escort, with his boutonniere.

Her Royal Highness. Mr. Wally Nehrling presents roses to Homecoming Queen Judy Wampler.

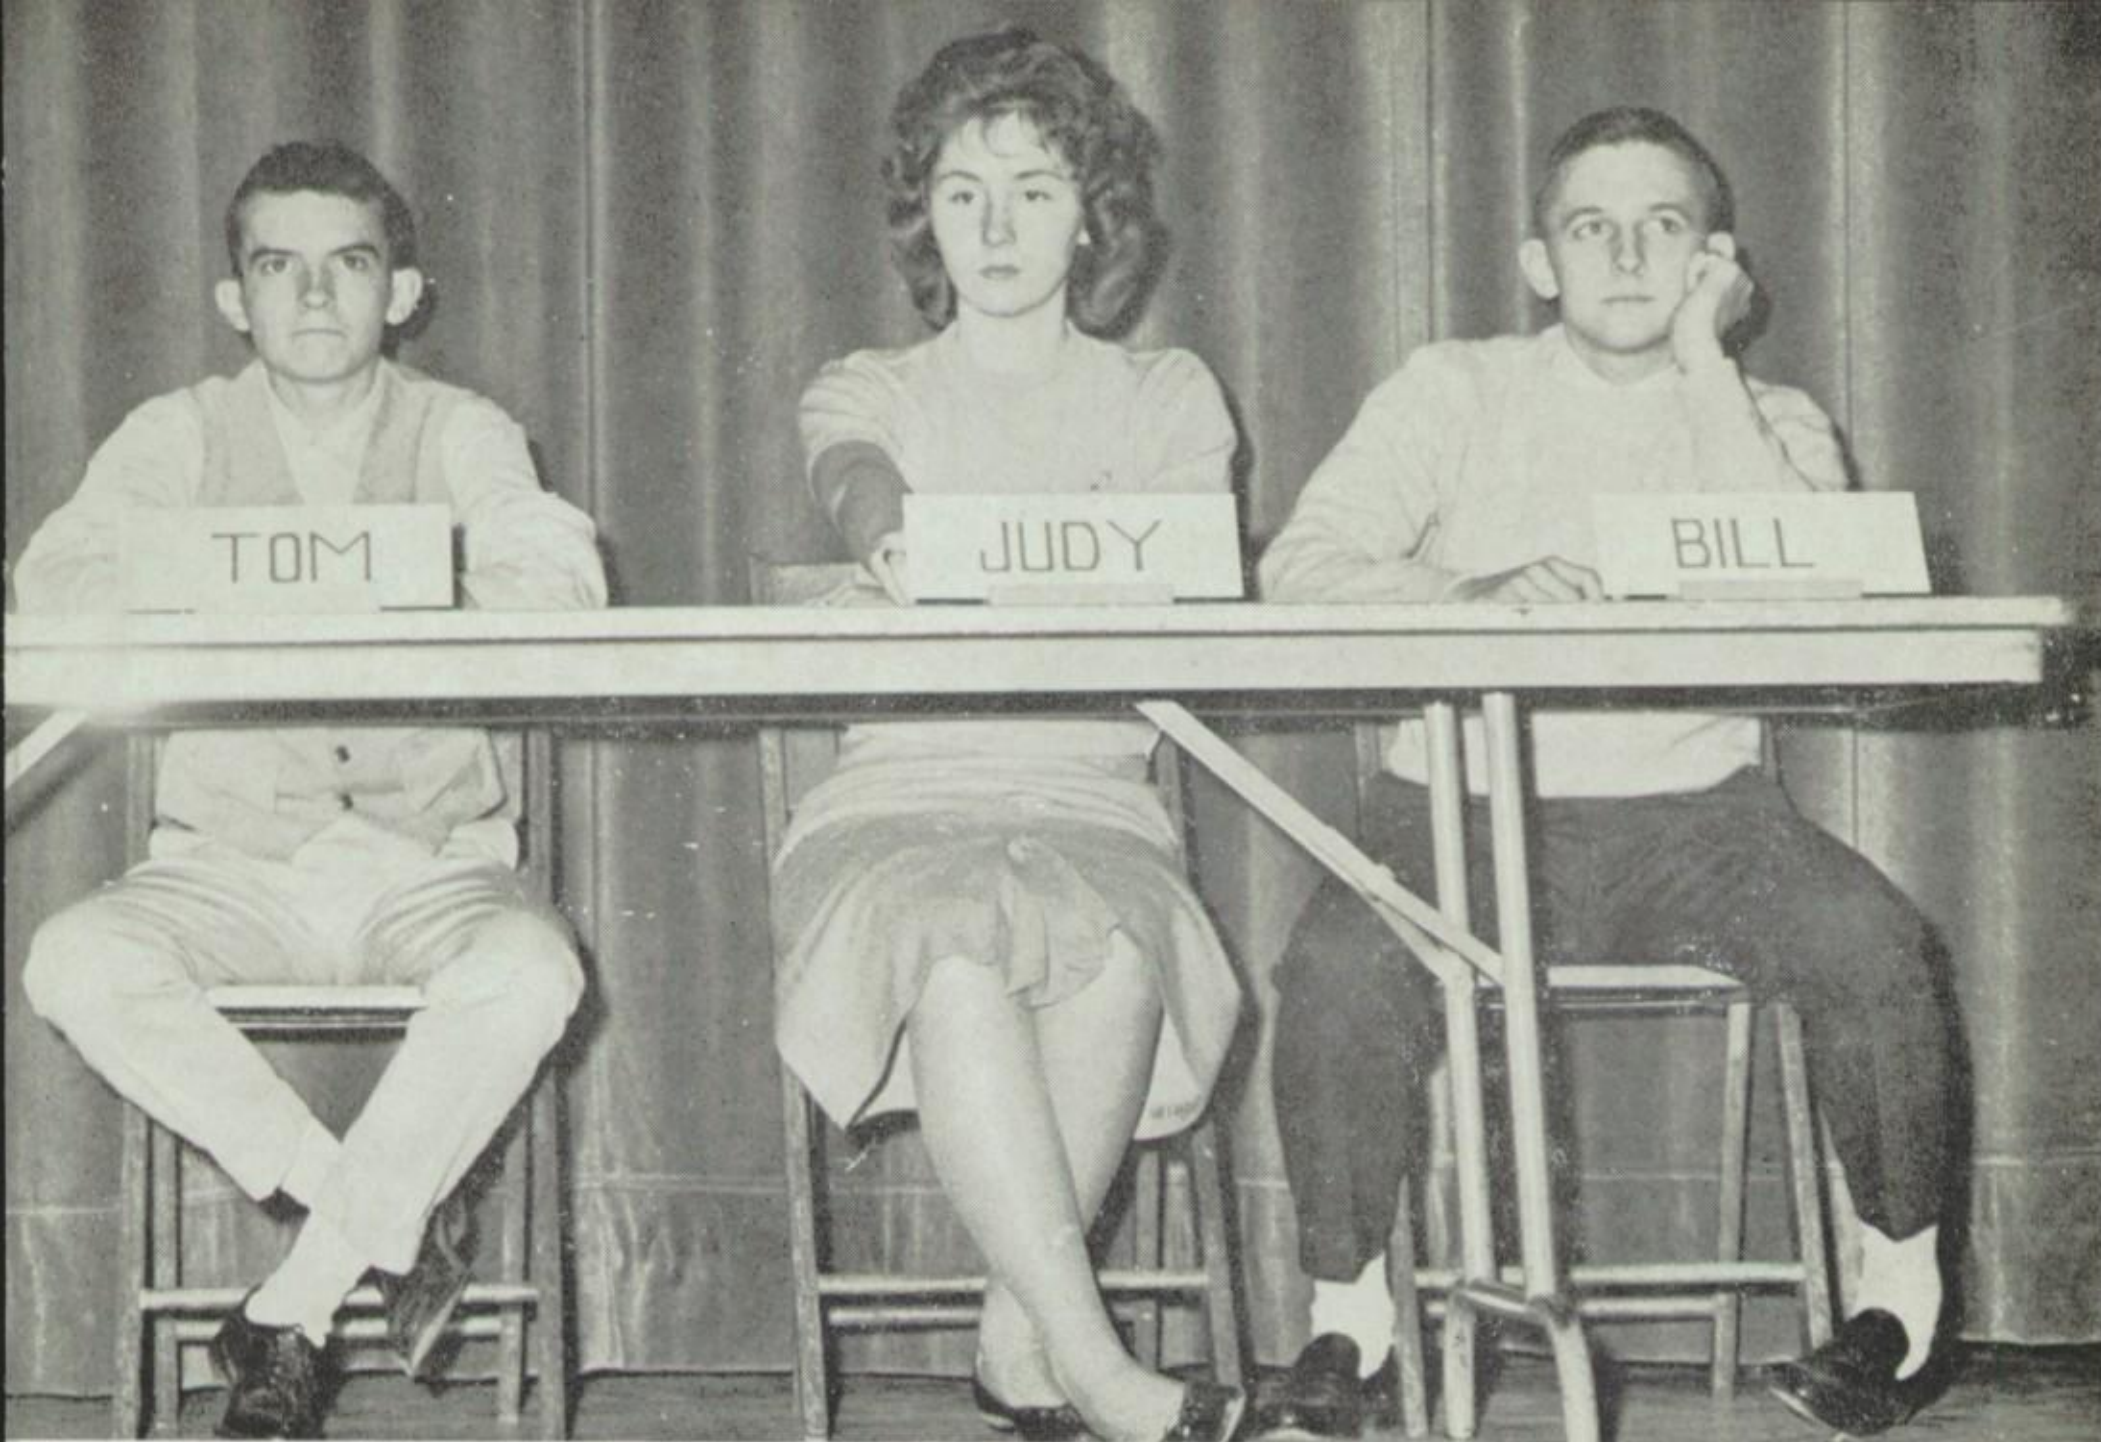

"This is it." Outstanding girl scientist Diane Osting prepares her winning project.

Good Citizens. Judy Powell received the D. A. R. good citizenship award for leadership and scholarship.

His Honor. Bob Leeper performs as acting mayor of the city.

Think! Think! Think! Members of the Expedition To Knowledge panel are Pat Coleman, Tom Blair, Judy Powell, and Bill Becker.

striving for recognition,

Recognition and awards await the pupil who strives to achieve "above and beyond the call" of assignments. Extending from simple compliments to pins or plaques, intra-school awards lead to scholastic recognition from state and national sources. Such honorary titles as "Outstanding Girl Scientist of Indiana" and "Mayor for a Day" are bestowed upon promising students who become the proof of a job well done in the scholastic field. Through personal initiative, Continentals meet the challenge of rivalry and receive the reward of leadership.

Democracy in action. Preparing her winning speech for the "I Speak for Democracy" contest, Rosa Lee Clark gathers research material.

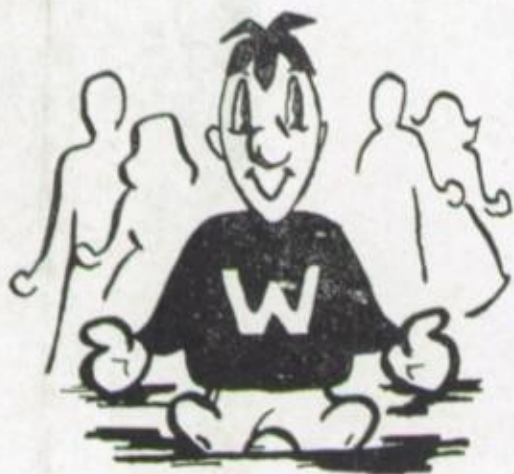

Practice, practice, practice! Vaudeville performers Charlene Day and Bonnie Dodd listen intently to Mrs. Marjorie Henderson's instructions.

Back to school. Mrs. Margaret McWilliams explains parts of the school curriculum to parents who visited the school for Open House.

Continental's create "Spirit of '61". . .

Students who volunteer their services under the titles of "usher" and "assistant" find themselves running errands, keeping records in order, or alphabetizing names in the span of one period. Bookstore attendants serve Washington by selling books, taking inventory, and balancing supplies on hand. Ushers carry messages and call slips to respective destinations. Learning through actual experience, clinic assistants, gym assistants, library assistants, and audio-visual assistants better understand the many phases of school life.

Assistant? Joe Hendricks helps Pat Orebaugh serve punch at an after school dance.

Big Wheels. Mr. Kramer and Mr. Julian assist Parent-Teacher Association officers Mrs. Harry Harrington, Mrs. James Leeper, Mrs. Aaron Leak, and Mrs. Edward Horner.

Willing workers. John McGrew and Robert Anderson devote much of their spare time to the audio-visual department.

Research, reports aid English study

Improving one's g r a m m a r, composition, spelling, and literary knowledge, English study tends to re-educate the pupil in the proper use of his everyday language. Fundamental skills stressed in English I through English III guide pupils to advancements in writing skills in the courses of English IV through English VII. Advanced composition cultivates writing ability while English IX explores our great literary heritage. Laboratory reading in early English increases comprehension and speed ability. Four new English teachers add newness to standard methods of teaching practiced at Washington.

"I know it's here." Many Continental students spend study hall and other spare moments in the library.

The foundation upon which our English language is formed, foreign languages help the student who wishes to attend college. Including not only the underlying histories of Latin and Spanish speaking countries, but also the everyday habits of the native people, these courses add an extra spark to ignite the curiosity of Continentaland.

Collecting the annual contribution to the Care fund, language students find relief in the knowledge that they are helping their fellow man. Translating Spanish phrases in the new laboratory room, students receive personal attention and aid in the study of the Spanish language.

Lee asta! Mrs. Fimie Ritchie assists one of her pupils in the new language booths.

Languages give insight to other nations

Magistra! Sharon Callan, Sally Worrell, Sharon Corbin, Sandy Marsh and Diane Osting are assisted with their lesson by Mrs. Hester Erwin.

$A = \frac{1}{2}bh$. Assisting Sue Douglass with her geometry problems are Bob Eder and Richard Johnson.

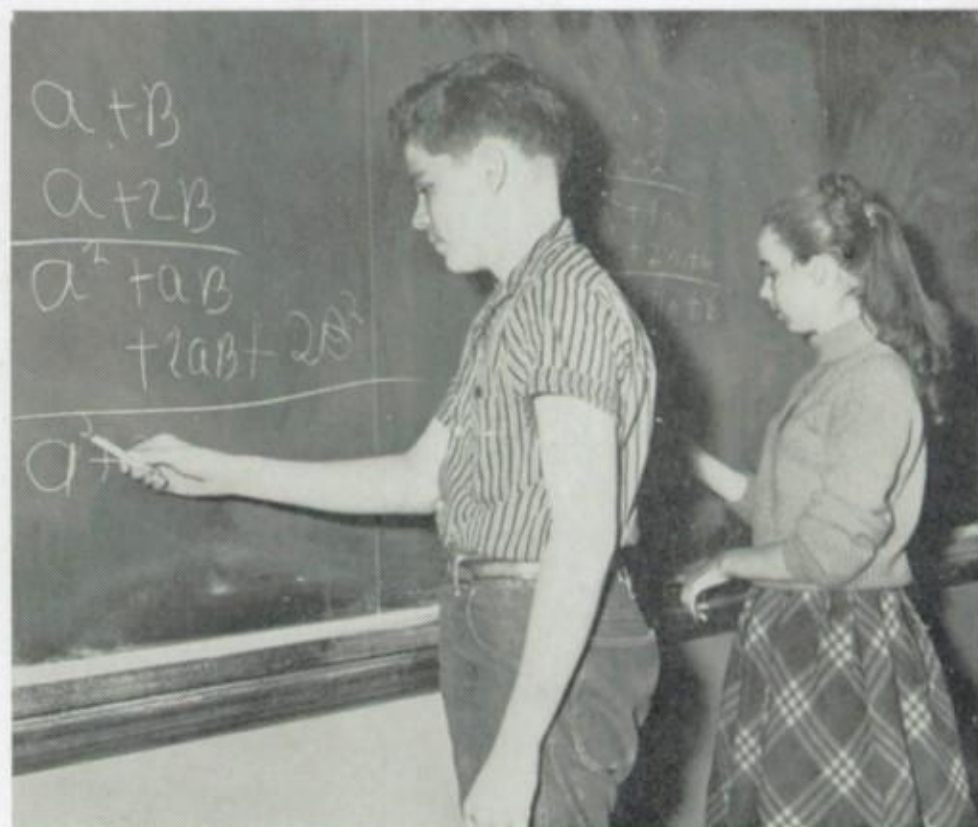

Creating an interest in a new and different language, Washington's math department teaches pupils to speak in terms of formulas, equations, and mathematical definitions. There are many classes of math offered during a Continental's four school years. Although only one year of math is required, many students continue to enroll in math courses each semester. Continentals continue their math studies by taking such advanced courses as geometry, trigonometry, college algebra, analytic geometry, and senior math. Whether a student enrolls in required courses or elective courses, he obtains knowledge that is vital to college bound pupils.

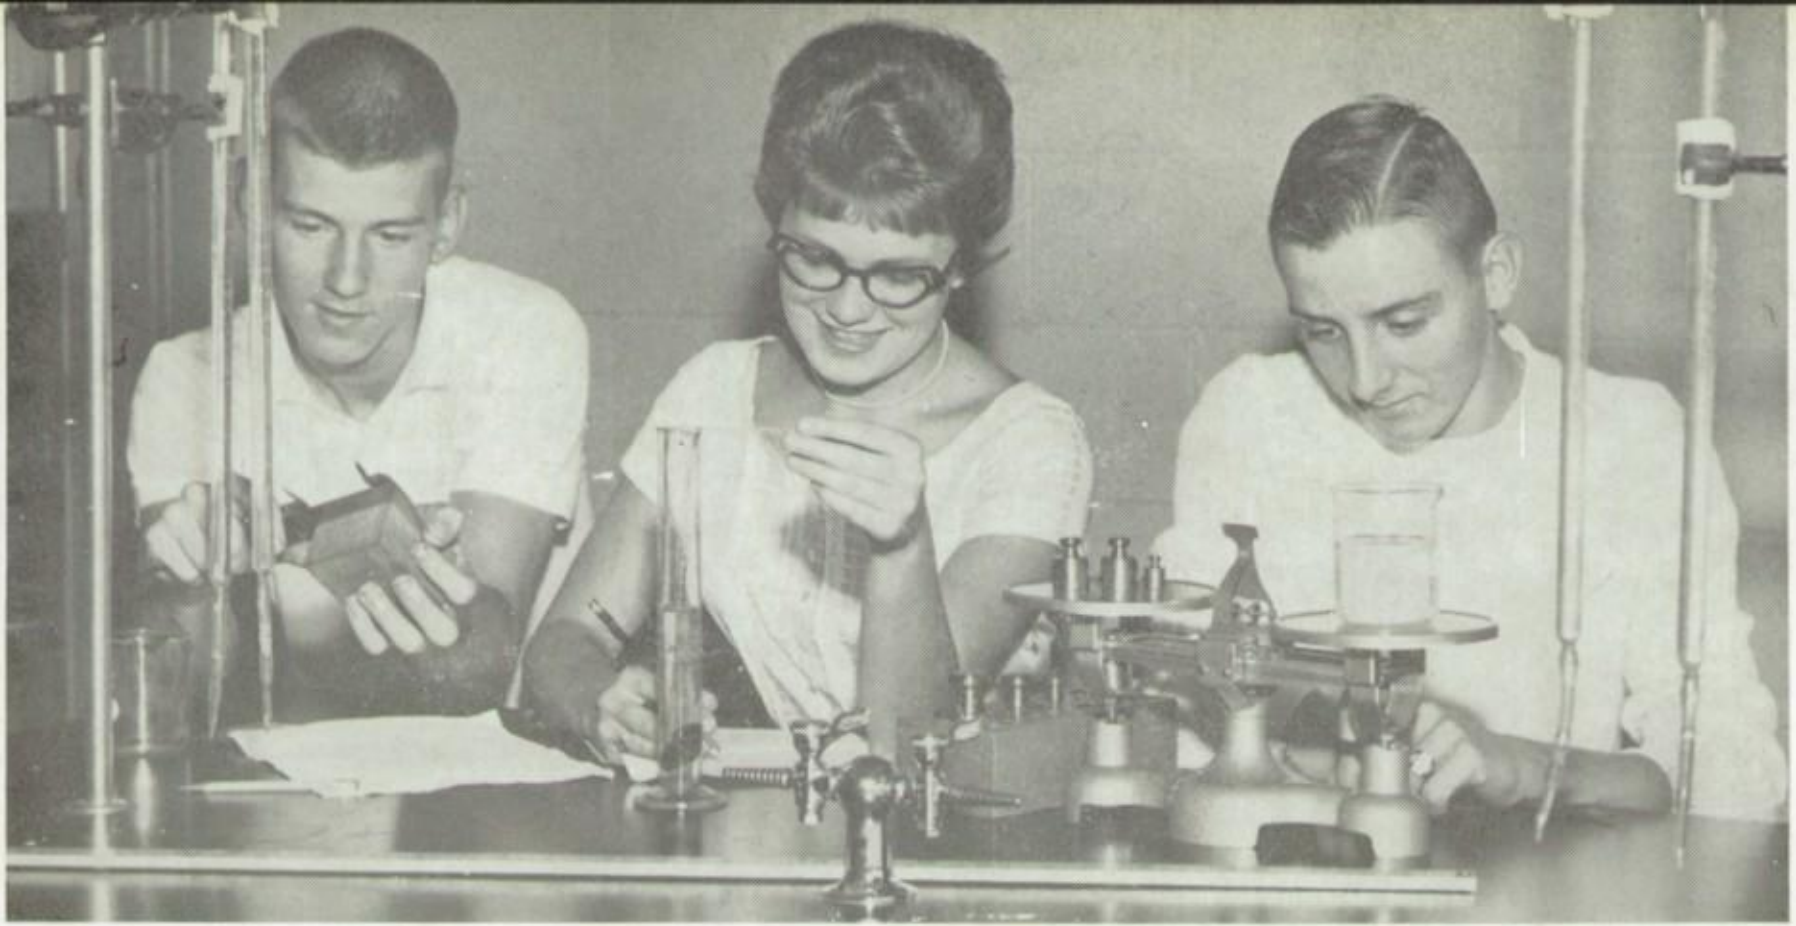

Math vital to college-bound students

We got it. Newton Roberts and Anita Morris lend mutual assistance in the college algebra class.

$a + b = c$. Learning the fundamental algebraic equations is the goal of all freshmen enrolled in Algebra I.

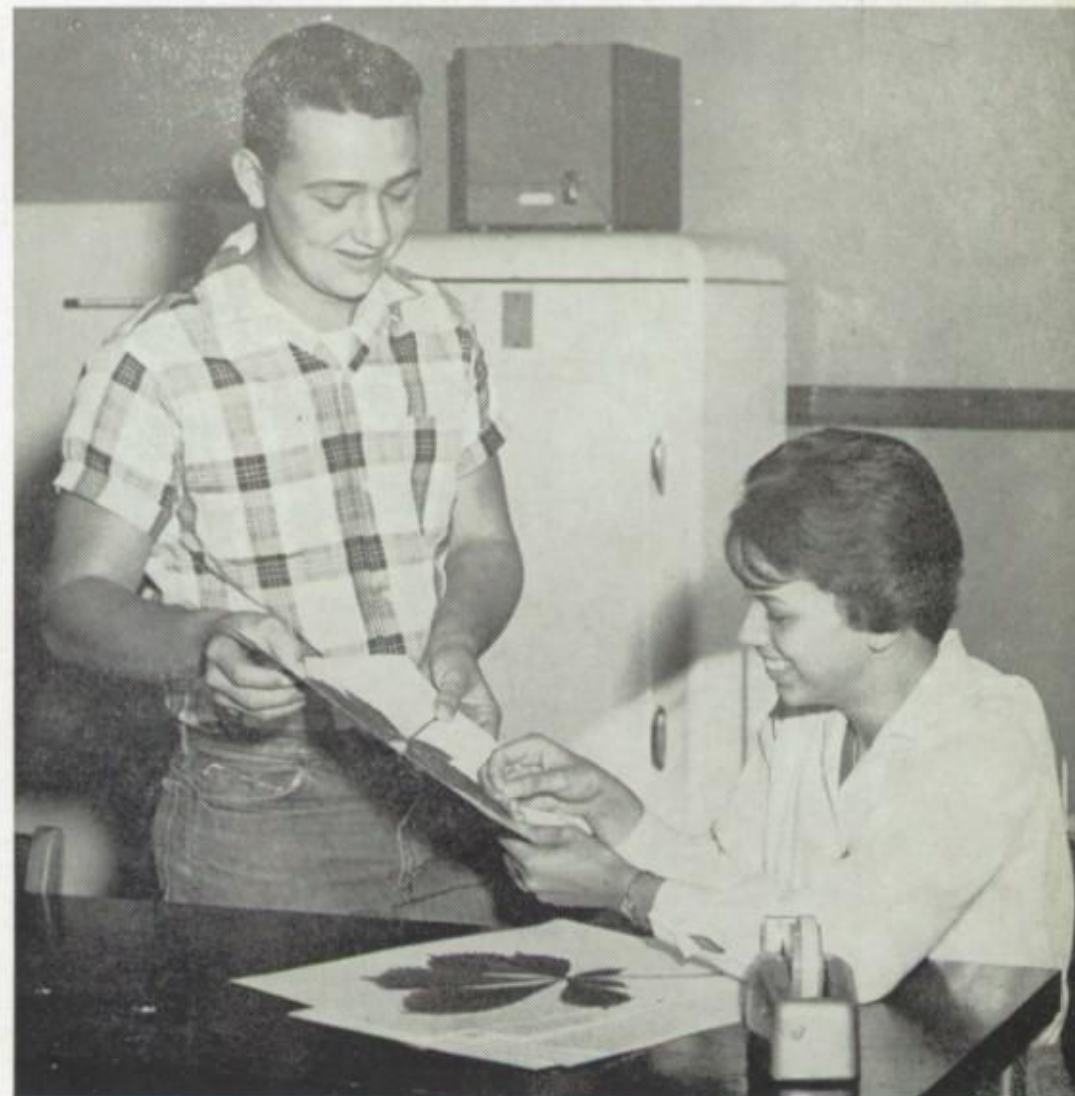

Precision's the word. Frank Ivancie, Judy Tackwell, and Don Rose watch the results of an experiment.

Science opens new doors of learning

Joining the fast-moving atomic age, Continentals gather knowledge of the world about them through the influence and guidance of members of the science department. Biology, chemistry, and physics enable pupils to take advantage of the opportunities offered them and to complete their experiments with modern facilities.

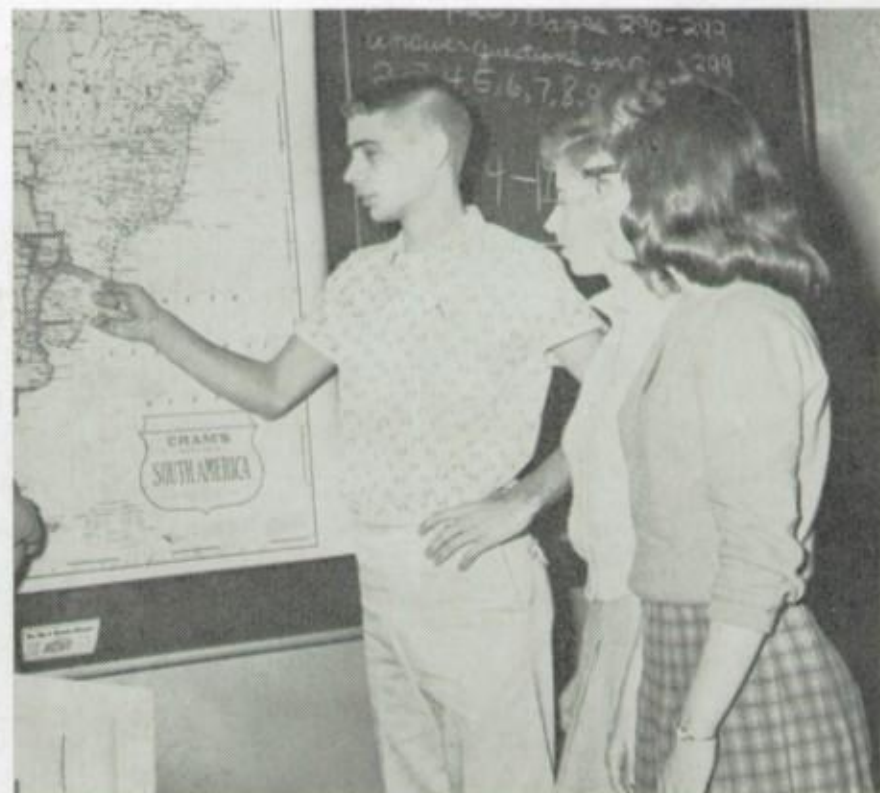

Stimulating the great minds of tomorrow, the science library serves science pupils as they complete their research and study on complicated projects. Science advancements become important to tomorrow's scientists.

Finished! Paul Dunn and Judy Wampler, biology students, compare types of leaves in their collections.

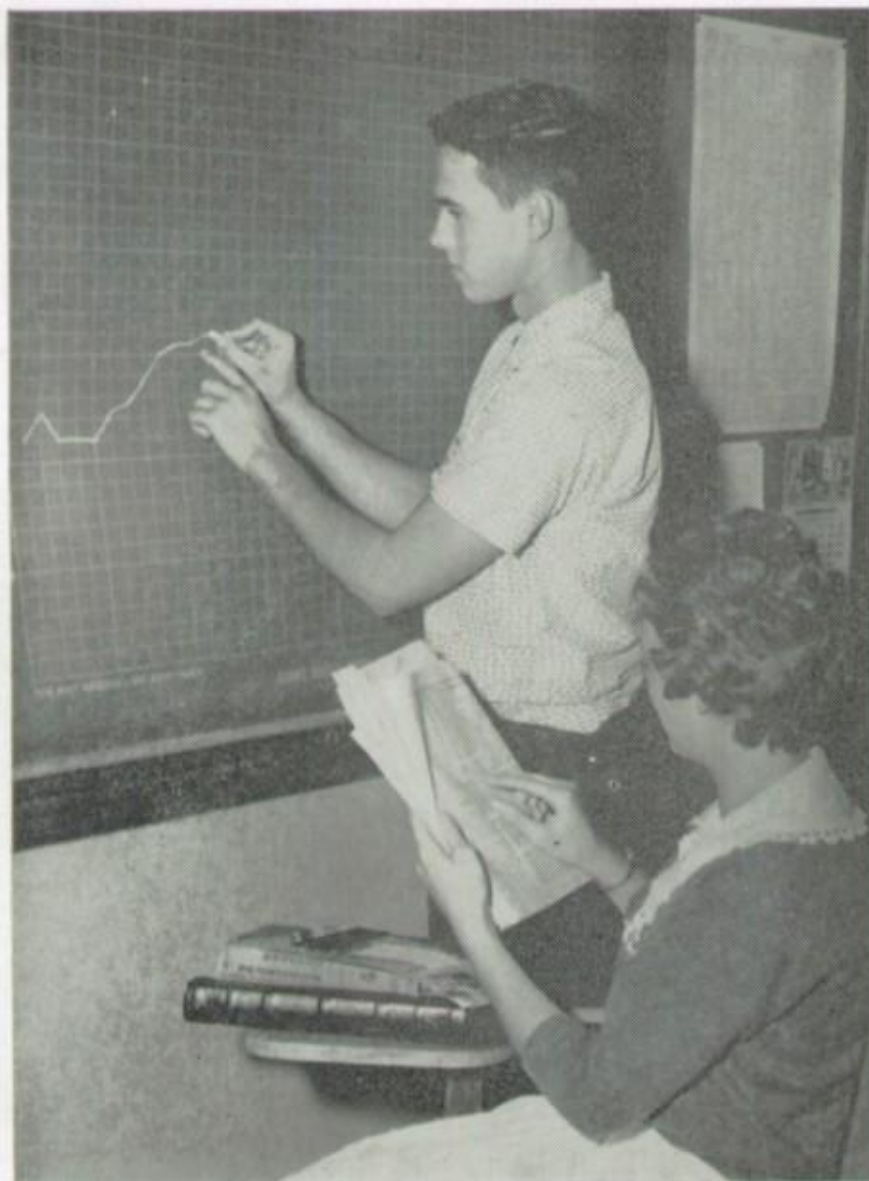

"Government of the people." Mr. Meyers assists Tonya Hopper, Linda Howard, and Dotty Stewart in class.

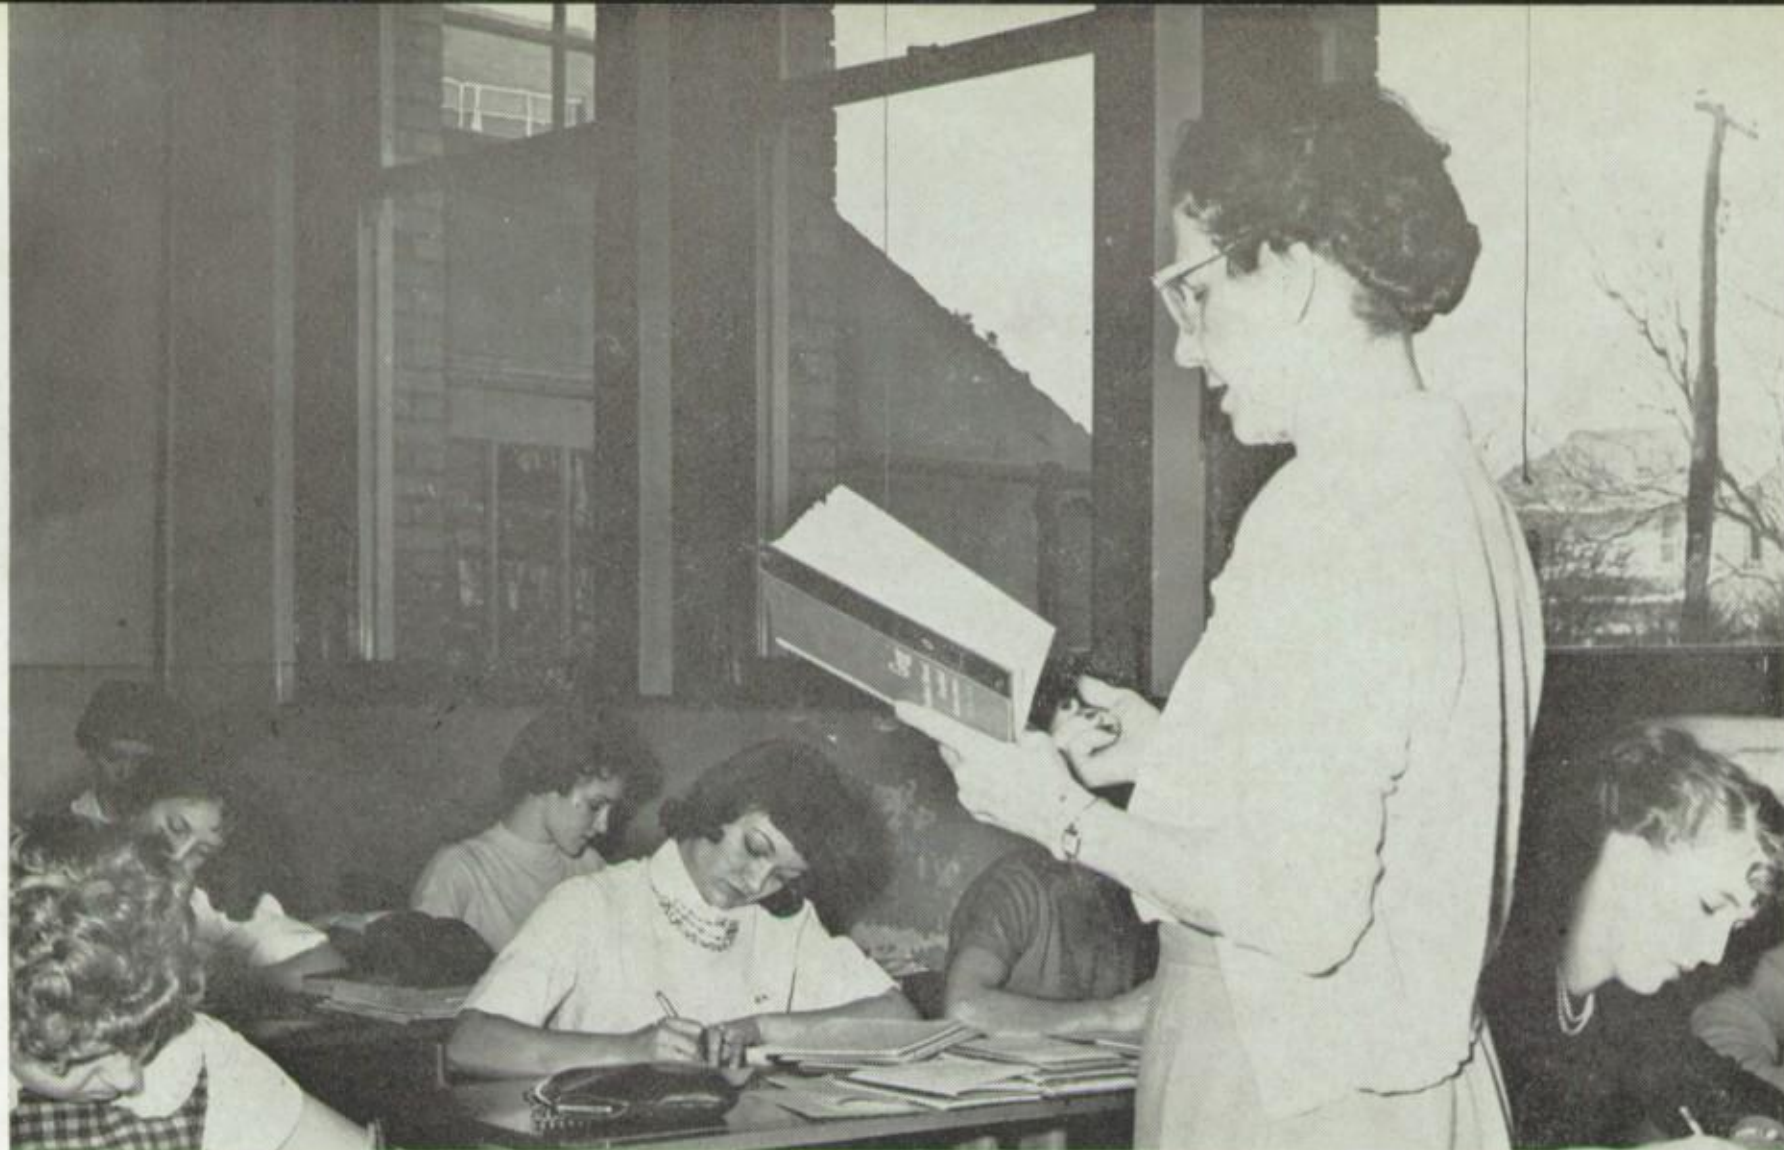

"It's right there." Kenny Drake points out a Latin American country to Shirley Logan and Janice Lee.

History brings world "to fingertips"

Discovering that history repeats itself, pupils observe the world and its problems. Studying the '60 national election and holding their own class elections, American government pupils prepare for the day when they can vote. Seniors gain experience in the field of investment by "buying" stocks and charting the profits daily. World history, Indiana history, and United States history provide a foundation with which to evaluate past events with current events. A scholarship offered by the Lilly Foundation opens the road to higher education for excelling students.

"Up 2 points." Michael Flinn and Lillian Gosnell plot the rise and fall of stocks in their economics class.

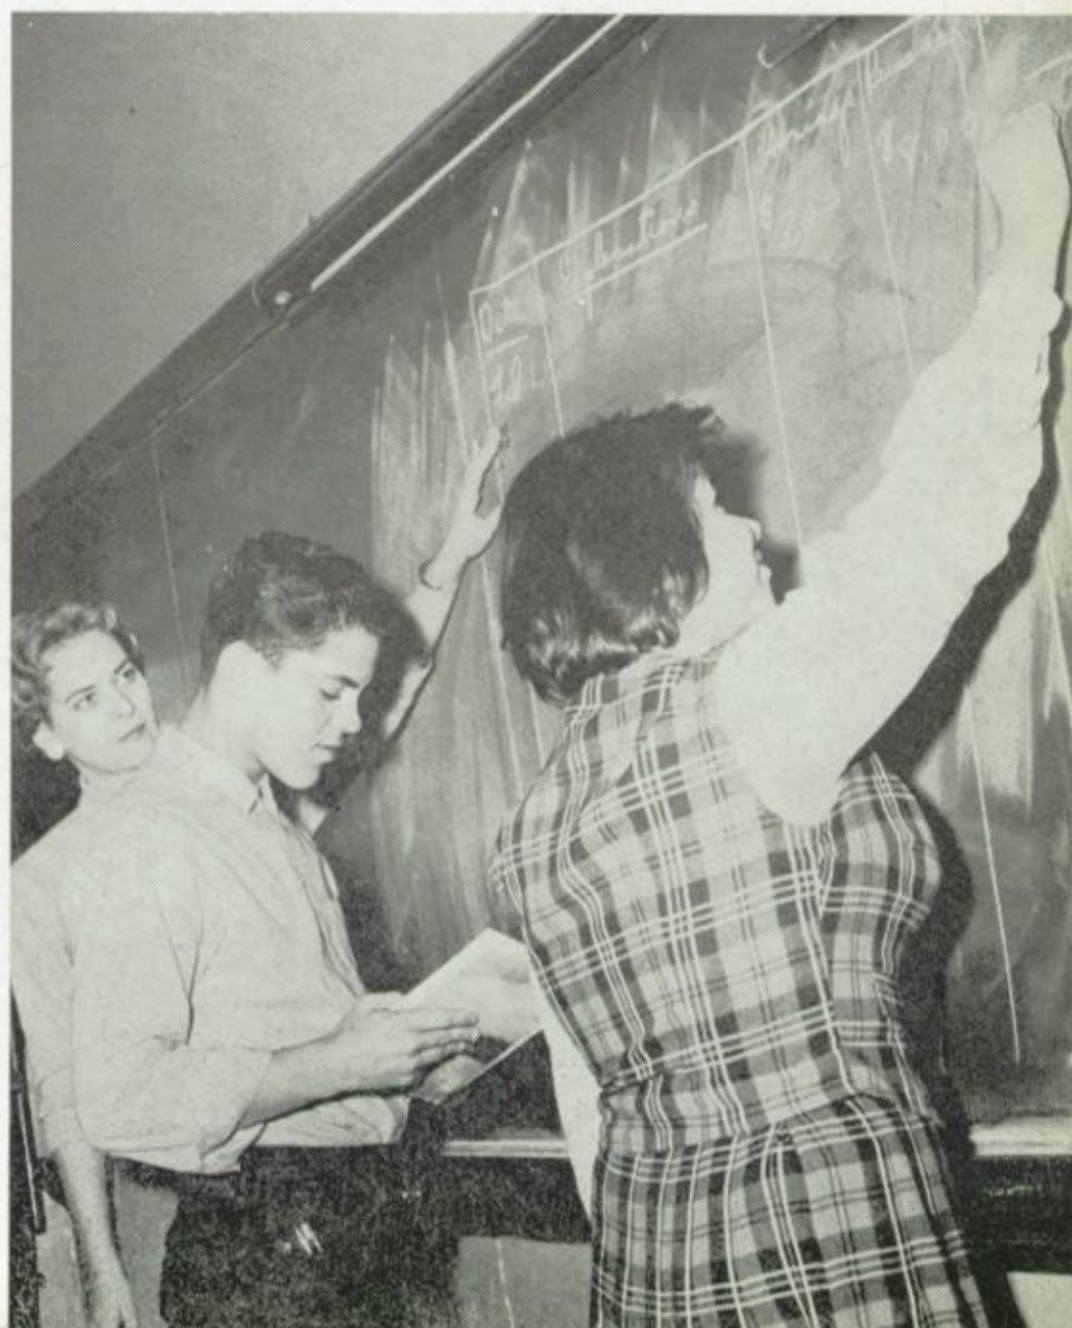

"Rush, rush, rush!" A shorthand class writes to a speedy dictation given by teacher Miss Laatz.

Accuracy, speed sought in business

Transforming the student into an executive figure, business courses reveal the techniques used by successful businessmen in the undertaking of financial transactions. Book-keeping, typing, and shorthand outline an effective short cut to an efficient business. Junior business explores the financial aspects of the administrative world and probes deeper into what actually constitutes a business office. By practical application of well-learned business principles, students gain efficiency and experience in business law and office practice classes.

Slight pause. Mike Tsakrios looks over his assignment as Jan Moore writes her answer for Miss Keck.

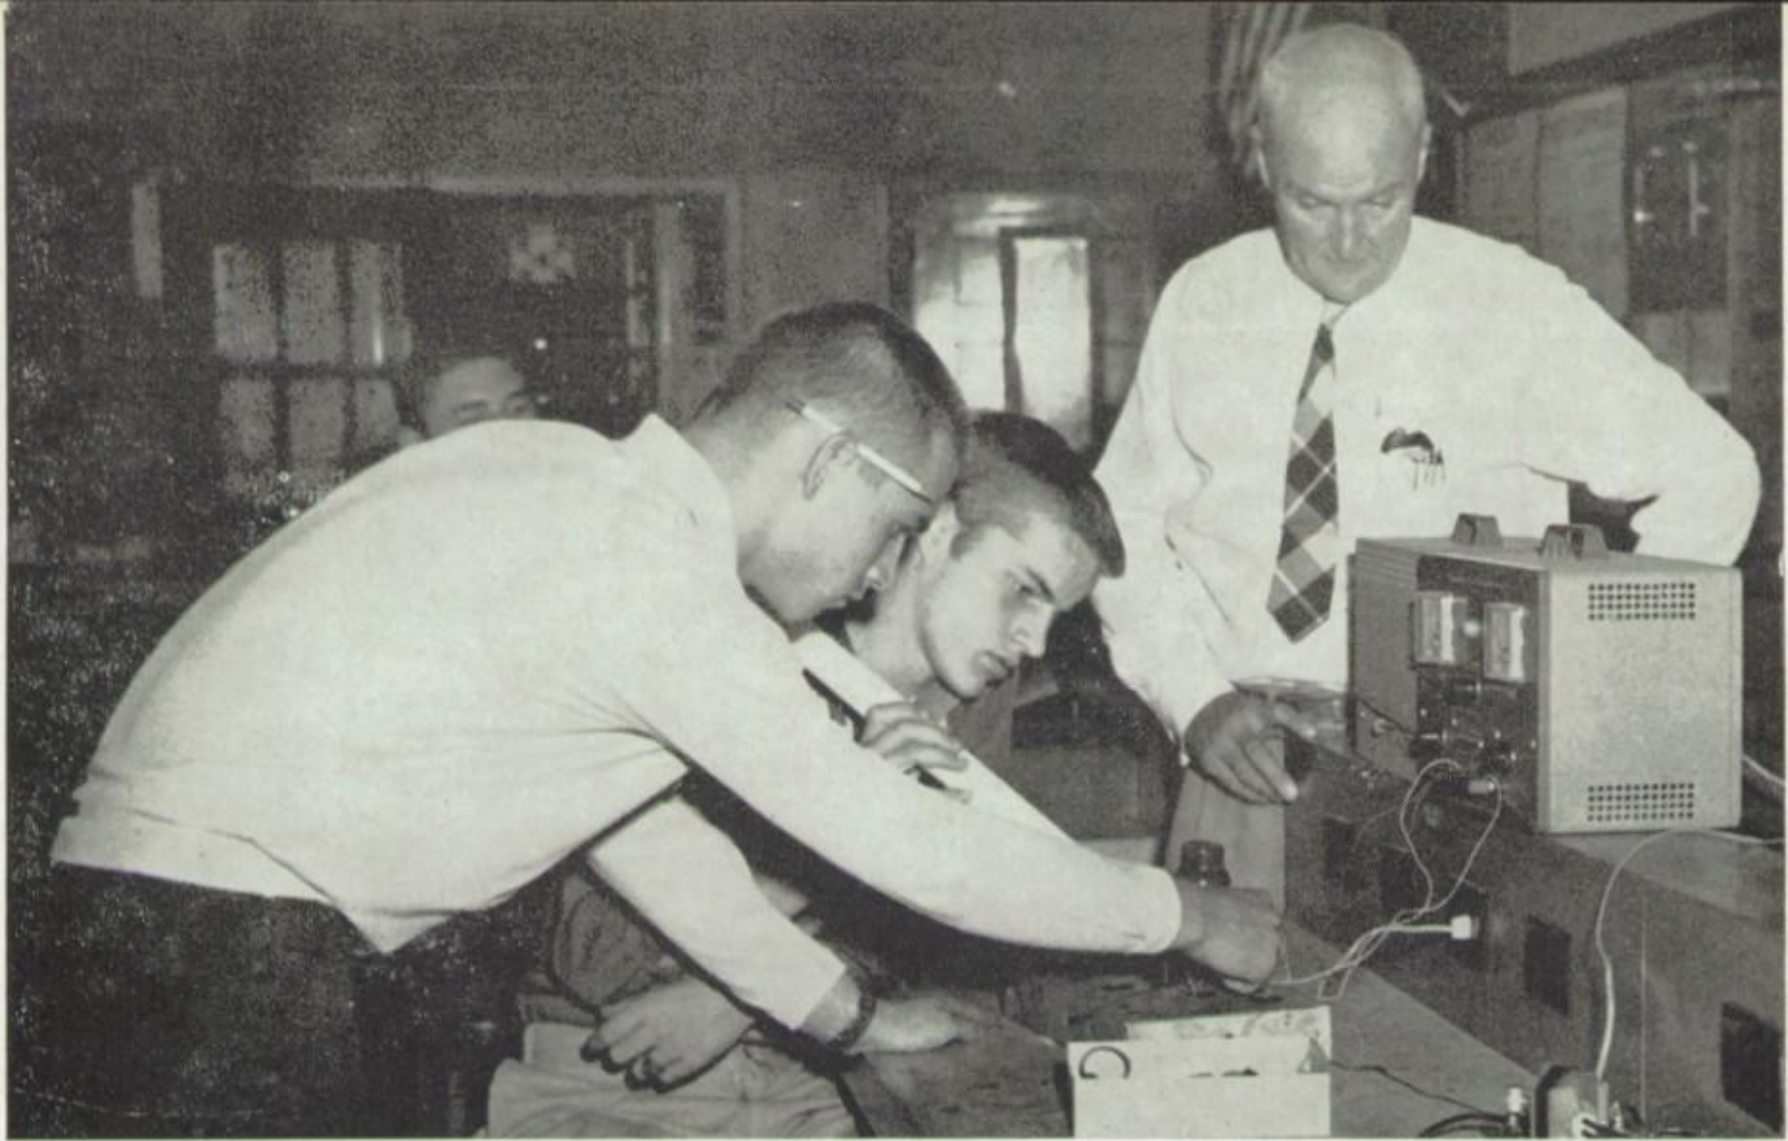

"Where's my food?" Connie Farley complains as she waits for Mable Jones and Karen Tucker to serve her.

Tailored suits and coats appear with the magic of a stitch in time during the course Clothing V for advanced pupils. Instructors guide the younger generation in such courses as foods, clothing, and family living. Adopting sound methods of homemaking, pupils gain self-confidence and assurance of a successful future. Boys occasionally enroll in culinary courses and find satisfaction in meeting the challenge of homemaking. Increased enrollment in home hygiene, home management, and family living reflects the pupils' inclination toward adulthood.

Culinary, millinery arts explored

"No, like this." Mrs. Luther demonstrates to Barbara Pickard the correct way to sew a garment.

"No, it goes here!" Under the supervision of Mr. Weaver, Terry Kerby and Bob Vandergriff work on their class project.

Shops unveil "tricks of trade"

"Watch it!" Leroy Saylor tests the service device for grinding metals while Don DeBorde acts as spotter.

Producing usable items, numerous boys discover occupational possibilities through Washington's vocational classes. These classes cushion Continentals for the job uncertainties that follow graduation. Ranging from screwdrivers to tube radios, and from blue prints to constructions, projects add invaluable training to the schedule of shop majors. Contrary to popular belief, vocational courses are not limited to those unable to maintain a full academic schedule. Boys must have above average intelligence to do well in shop courses. Once mastered, these courses provide graduates with training necessary for definite vocations.

"Made with my own two hands." Mary Jones and Steve Smothers create useful articles in craft arts class.

Artists create minor masterpieces

Displaying their creativity, Continental artists line the halls of Washington with minor masterpieces. Drawing, painting, or sketching, pupils exhibit imagination and talent on canvas. Craft arts courses offer students opportunities for creating such articles as modern art in plaster of paris and in string designs. Posters made by the commercial art classes were displayed in post offices to encourage early mailing at Christmas. Continental artwork, long noted for excellence, captured forty-eight blue ribbons, gold keys, or honorable mention awards at the Central Indiana Regional Art Exhibition Contest. The quality of workmanship of pupils entitled Washington to rank second in the state.

Artists at work. Displaying art projects, Mona Hutton and Bill Case search for "just one more space."

Under the skilled direction of physical education teachers, Washington students generate energy and enthusiasm throughout their daily classes. Games and exercises provide healthy outlets for emotions of students. Health, the study of our physical and emotional problems, creates an understanding of the human organism. First aid and driver's education, now a combined course, reveal the policies and procedures of safe and skilled driving by actual "behind the wheel" experiences.

"Up we go!" Boys enrolled in gym classes find rope climbing is an excellent way to develop co-ordination.

Physical Ed stimulates mind, body

"In comes the good air." Mrs. Elizabeth Hatfield grades Marilyn Arnot on correct techniques of administering artificial respiration.

Echoing melodies. Members of the Girls' Ensemble are S. Smith, P. Cloud, L. Ison, S. Corbin, S. Marsh, D. Eller, J. French, N. Hoskins, M. Gill, and L. Clarkston.

Vocalists perfect tone

Voicing their talent. Participating in Boys' Concert club are Row 1: L. Stinson, H. Johnson, G. Hart, M. Fishburn, D. Grider, J. Mitchell, C. Schaefer, M. Parker, C. Ellis, S. Baker, B. Anderson; row 2: J. Sadler, M.

Kord, C. Huff, B. Heidenreich, K. Obergfell, J. Koon, A. Darringer, K. Ross, H. Foster, L. Cope, R. Lacewell, and R. Long. The boys participate in the programs of neighborhood organizations during the year.

Filling the air with music. Colonial Chorus members include Row 1: S. Kinney, B. Anderson, P. Turner, C. Dodd, D. Kany, B. Kemp, S. Smith, J. Collins, J. DeMoss, M. Brown, M. Staten, A.  ers. Not shown: R. Long, M. Dulin, B. VanBuskirk, C.
 Landess, and D. Gunere.

to Continentals

Inspiring Continentals with the "sound of music," Washington offers a widespan program for music-minded pupils. Beginning glee clubs start the program with fundamental measures of learning. Notes, rests, bars, and scales become familiar signs for reading music as the pupil nears promotion to the Concert clubs. Practicing for convocations and programs, the concert clubs ready students for their advancements to Colonial Chorus and Continentales. Colonial Chorus, Continentales, and Concert band and orchestra display their accomplishments through programs for the student body and surrounding schools and organizations.

Beginners learn. David Buddenbaum, Dave Bryant, and Nancy Fultz learn fundamental orchestration.

Look sharp! Sponsors Carol McKinney, Beverly Carpenter, Pam Waltz, and Barbara Brown add "a woman's touch" to the Continental ROTC corps.

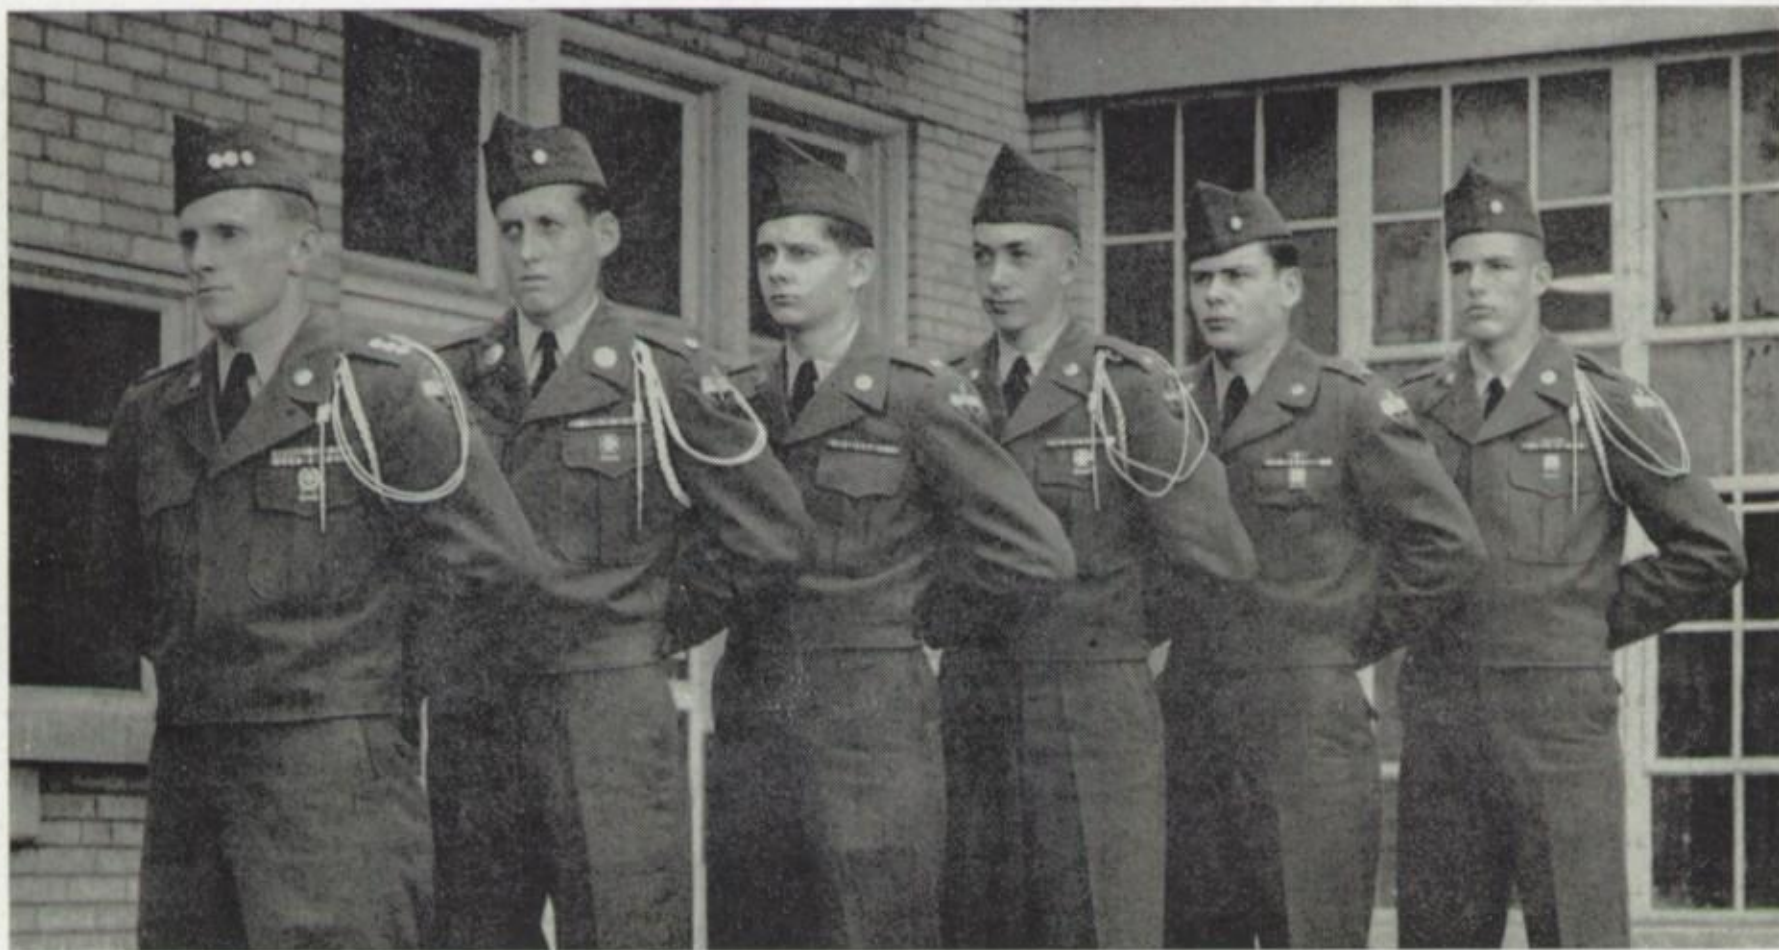

Glowing with pride. Pam Waltz, Military Ball Queen, and Barbara Brown, court member, are escorted by Russell Young and Reid Samuels following the crowning ceremonies.

Cadets snare

Receiving instruction in dismantling, cleaning, reassembling, and shooting a rifle early in their training, ROTC cadets become accustomed to rigid military discipline. This course stresses initiative in the practices of actual military techniques. Frequent inspections keep cadets and sponsors at the peak of neatness. Sponsors add poise and distinction to the corps during inspections and parades. ROTC cadets constantly strive to qualify for promotion to officer status. This year, our cadets captured sharpshooting awards for firing position and for accuracy.

Color Guard. Cadets who present the flag at school activities are Merle VanVolkenburgh, Charles Roberts, Ronald Ballard, and Larry Cope.

Attention! Displaying military discipline are ROTC officers Russell Young, Dale Moore, Henry Heginbotham, William Denton, David Wollen, and John Heinzmann in full uniform.

sharp shooting award

Marksmen. Rifle team members include Wesley Darnell, Robert Long, Mickey Eller, Dennis Gray, David Wollen, Robert McFeely, Ralph Pittman, and Charles Roberts. All are underclassmen except Darnell.

Salute to the flag. Performing the flag-lowering ceremony each Friday, cadets Charles Roberts, Richard Duncan, and Elmer Watson honor "Old Glory."

In Activities

The Difference is

Diversion

Working without relief strong bond between pupil and school...

Diverting Continental energy to healthy avocations constitutes the goal of Washington's extracurricular program.

This goal is obtained through the joint effort of pupils and teachers to strengthen and unify the student body.

Intra-City Council. Studying information received from the Intra-City Council are Dave Horner, Kenny Turpin, Bill Becker, Maxine Kennedy, and Sandy K. Marsh.

During the meetings of the Student Council, student representatives promote better relations between the pupils and teachers of Washington. Miss Leunice Horne, sponsor, and David Horner, president, guide the council members as they discuss rules and policies for Continental guidance.

Sponsored by all city schools, the Intra-City Council receives three representatives from each school. This year, Washington's Maxine Kennedy served as vice-president to the Intra-City Student Council.

Councils boost teacher, student relations

Student government. Members of the Student Council are Row 1: S. Douglass, A. Davidson, F. Hise, E. Lewis, S. Cardwell, A. Chambers, A. Lewis, R. Kimsey, V. Kehr, B. Kemp; row 2: V. Mills, C. Swarts, R. Robertson, J. Olsen, K. Sommer, R. White, B. Smith, C. Opp, S. Corbin, J. Warren, C. Gardner, K. Hessel; row 3: Miss L. Horne, sponsor, D. Wilson, S. Popcheff, R.

Societies grasp for "top teens"

Maintaining a high scholastic average, pupils cultivate leadership, scholarship, citizenship, and co-operation to be eligible for the National Honor Society. Continentals who qualify produce high quality work and constantly endeavor to improve themselves.

Quill & Scroll, an international honor society for high school journalists, offers recognition for those who have made outstanding contributions in the field of journalism. Those vying for membership must meet qualifications similar to those of the Honor Society.

Honorary Journalists. Quill & Scroll members are S. Dalzell, T. Blair, P. Orebaugh, J. Hamm, P. Bain, S. Handak, C. Catron, P. Huff, K. Turner, B. Williams, S. Adams, P. Pritchett, K. Turpin, J. Hayes, and F. Johnson.

"Look here!" Washingtonian officers Judy Powell, Judi Kernohan, Brenda Williams, Mary Patterson, and Karen Turner look over the minutes of a past meeting.

Washingtonians' perform school service

"Now listen carefully." Delegates to the Purdue conference are C. Swarts, P. Coleman, J. Wampler, B. Kloeker, S. Green, D. Hicks, S. Dalzell, and C. Johnson.

Recognized for outstanding achievements, Continental representatives travel to all parts of the state and nation to attend conferences throughout the year.

Participating in operations of state government, delegates to Girls' and Boys' State hold mock offices.

Members of the journalism staffs take part in conferences at summer institutes and return with ideas to better Continental publications.

Forming the Washingtonians, senior girls offer their services to freshmen girls through the Big Sister party each semester.

Congratulations! Pam Waltz presents Judy Hamm with a pin from Girls' State. They both represented Washington at the student government this year.

The business at hand. Looking over special data concerning their trip to Boys' State are David Horner, Bill Becker, Tom Blair, and Robert Leeper.

Universities host traveling students

Traveling Journalists. Journalism students who attended institutes were Row 1: Ken Turpin, Brenda Williams, Judy Hamm, Karen Turner, Paulette Huff, Barb

Einsteins? Participating in the Science Club are Row 1: B. Anderson, C. McKinney, A. Sommers, Mrs. Crider, sponsor, B. Carpenter, M. Hutton, P. Coleman, A. Morris; row 2: W. Carroll, J. Patrick, D. Thomas, S. Thomas, J. Kernohan, D. Osting, F. Starkey, M. Gracie, J. Powell, L. Dimitroff; row 3: P. Kira, D. Holloway, C. Johnson, C. Parmley, G. Clark, J. Stott, R. Grimes, D. Kirby, W. Darnell, R. Black, R. Murff, and M. Lyons.

Club members study Darwin, Moses

Love thy Neighbor. Members of the Bible Club are Row 1: N. Fultz, C. Landess, D. Roberts, M. Brown, M. Staten; row 2: Mrs. McWilliams, sponsor, C. Gugenheim, S. Bunch, D. Davis, D. Eller, C. Green; row 3: J. Stewart, D. Voyles, S. Hudson, J. Strange, J. Wilbur, R. Murff, and J. Minoe.

Developing the inventive mind through science, Mrs. Elizabeth Crider, sponsor of the Science Club, guides interested pupils in the planning and executing of field trips and experiments. Every second and third Tuesday of each month, the members meet with their guests for discussions.

Acceptance of all religions is the basic goal of the Bible Club under the sponsorship of Mrs. Margaret McWilliams. Members join in the study and discussion of the passages of the Bible and interpret their meanings in terms of modern thinking.

Using research and knowledge as keys in debate, the members of the Debate Club, under the guidance of Miss Allie Dragoo, prepare for debate and speech contests. Opening the door to success, experience soon becomes more valuable than victory to the debator.

Exhibiting poise and talent in acting, the Drama Club members, led by sponsor Mrs. Marjorie Henderson, audition to obtain parts in school plays. Becoming adjusted to "stage life," members step from the darkness of shyness into the light of acting.

Creating an understanding of fundamental and advanced math, the Math Club, under the guidance of Jerald Wyman, gives an "extra lift" to pupils interested in math advancements.

Teens revere Wilder, Webster, Euclid

Stars of the Future. Members of the Dramatics Club include Row 1: S. Gray, L. Weeks, M. Medsker, S. Weasner, N. Cross; row 2: P. Hedges, L. Myrick, C. Buis, C. Showalter, F. Kampovsky, N. Brundage, J. Timmons; row 3: Mrs. Henderson, sponsor, C. Despot, K. Genty, C. Zeronik, A. Copeland, J. Lee, M. Garrison, V. Burns. They offer several performances a year.

Genius? Members of the Math Club include Row 1: Mr. Wyman, sponsor, T. Mer-var, C. Gardner, D. Schwalm, A. Morris; row 2: B. Carpenter, D. Osting, S. Smith, R. Koch, A. Sommers; row 3: A. Reed, W. Russell, C. Parmley, R. Arnett, B. Pickard.

Every little bit helps. Contributing to the Junior Red Cross party box are J. Rust, D. Wollen, T. Rust, S. Adams, D. Baird, J. Newby, M. Alexander, and B. Carroll. All are organization officers and delegates.

Issuing posters, membership cards, and lapel buttons, Junior Red Cross members begin their annual enrollment campaign under the guidance of Mrs. Fimie Richie, sponsor. During the year, its projects range from collecting items to be used at Christmas in hospitals to filling a gift chest to be sent abroad. In spring, city delegates test their alertness in defense during a mock disaster maneuver.

"Seeing is believing" says Junto Club members, led by Mr. Carl Zenor, as they enjoy many trips throughout the year. The fall meeting of the Indiana Junior Historical Society was held at Wabash College where its members toured campus and visited historical monuments. Discussing the Civil War, Mr. Zenor and six members of the club made a television appearance.

Club finds experience best teacher

Historians. Members of the Junto Club are Row 1: M. Bradshaw, L. Baker, E. Carter, J. Wampler, B. Kloeker, M. Durham, C. Swarts, J. Coleman, M. Medsker, B. Kemp; row 2: C. Wise, N. Worrell, J. P. Wallace, B. Doll, K. Tucker, J. Tackwell, S. Handak, T. Trusty, J. Wampler, D. Smith, B. Carpenter, M. Shelley, J. Patrick; row 4: J. Fields, D. Schaub, R. Murff, K. Hoffman, C. Spurgeon, L. Orr, J. Koon, S. Grounds, S. Adams, and D. Baker. The groups toured Indiana Central College in the spring.

"Et tu, Brute!" Representatives of the Latin Club are Row 1: S. Callan, A. Davidson, S. Cardwell, C. Gardner, S. Corbin, L. Lewis, S. Douglass; row 2: J. Moorman, C. Gruber, B. Mraz, S. Thomas, C. Crawford, D. Gano, W. Carroll, C. Potter; row 3: M. Alexander, S. Marsh, F. Starkey, J. Stott, R. Murff, J. Mitchell, A. Copeland, S. Worrell, and K. Fox. Each year this club sponsors a CARE package drive.

Speakers, films inform organizations

Forming the Latin Club, interested Latin students further formal knowledge as they become absorbed in their special speakers and films. Sponsor Mrs. Hester Erwin guides the members in the planning of the annual spring Roman Banquet.

Discussing the fundamentals of teaching, the Future Teachers of America Club meets monthly to analyze and review the methods used in teaching. Films giving added illustrations about teaching techniques add variety to interest for members.

Hazelwood, and K. Turner.

Post staff preserves "memories of '61"

Editors. Tom Blair, managing editor, Sandy Adams, editor-in-chief, and Pat Orebaugh, assistant editor, discuss the plans of the 1961 yearbook with Karen Turner, business manager.

Presenting a complete and accurate picture of the school, the POST staff retains significant details of the 1960-61 school year. Striving to create an All-American yearbook, editors construct lay-outs of the prospective annual. After months of advanced planning of theme, cover design, and style, the POST staff begins production of the yearbook. Each detail must be carefully planned to insure an effective display of the year's activities. Skill in page balancing and picture planning add to the quality of the book. Staff members broaden their scope of information in order to convey to Continentals the many reasons for being proud of Washington High School. Production of the annual affords an opportunity for creative expression.

Being one of the few schools in Indiana whose newspaper is written, edited, and printed by the students, Washington can be justifiably proud of the SURVEYOR. Reporters cover "beats" to gather news for printing in the bi-weekly newspaper. Broadening the pupils' outlook, the SURVEYOR covers every school department, club, and event. Letters to the editor allow pupils to "sound off" about personal opinions and problems concerning the school. Editors and reporters alike worked to capture a first Medalist division award as one of the state's top five and an All-American rating.

Surveyor bosses. Editors of the SURVEYOR include Judy Hamm, Denny Dennett, Kenny Turpin, editor-in-chief, and Brenda Williams.

Publications sponsor "typical teen" contest

Johnnie and Connie Continental. Elected as Washington's typical teens were Doyle Baker and Sandy Adams.

Gaining professional journalistic experience, News Bureau reporters convey school news to the community. Through local and city newspapers, they inform readers of Continental activities, events, and special awards.

Portraying typical teens, Johnnie and Connie Continental, a selected couple, receive their crowns at the climax of the yearbook sales campaign. Acclaimed "typical teens," Johnnie and Connie attempt to set the example of leadership and citizenship at school.

Artists in impressing characters on paper, our print shop staff avails to Continentals a completely student-produced yearbook and paper. The SURVEYOR comes from the print shop presses every other week to eager readers. The school's yearly publication, the POST, necessitates long-range planning and infallible execution of instructions. Besides the two student publications, the print shop sets all official documents for Washington's offices. Using the off-set method, our printers supply tickets and student passes for athletic events. Readying the POST and SURVEYOR for publication and meeting deadlines promotes assumption of responsibility and development of dependability.

Small-time publisher. Operating a small hand press, Jim Strange works to complete his project.

Printers record current, past news

Operation SURVEYOR. After the final copies of the SURVEYOR are printed, the print shop assumes the task of folding them. Preparing the folding machine for operation, Jon Fleaka completes the process.

uphold honor, distinction

Reigning over loyal subjects, Continental queens upheld honor and distinction. Chosen by football team members, the Jamboree Queen initiated the list of desired queenships. Old memories returned as alumni viewed the crowning of the Homecoming Queen. Washington's Princess of Light, selected from the Senior Class, represented Continental in a gala Christmas parade. With the arrival of the track season, cindermen chose a queen to present awards at home meets. A lucky junior lass, as Clean-up Queen, ruled the Continental kingdom during the Clean-up Campaign. Typified by a guy and gal at the winter frolic, Jack Frost and Christmas Carol joined the royalty.

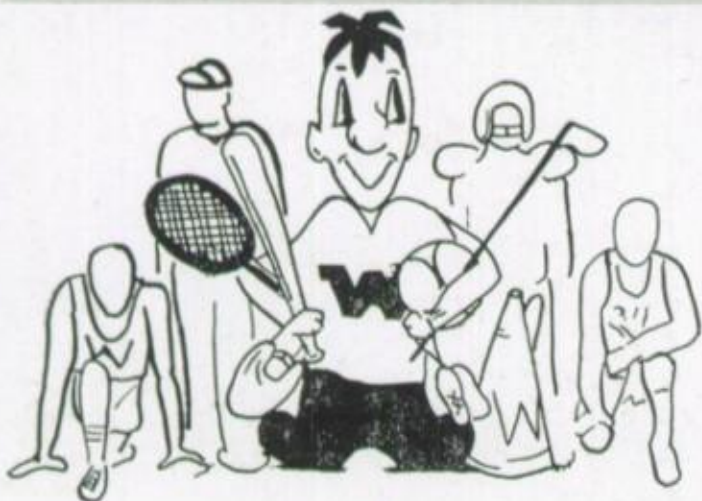

Overcoming the heights. Awards to cindermen are presented by the Track Queen and court Karen Hessel, Karen Turner, Tessa Trusty, Track Queen, Janet Mitchell, and Sharon Vance, ladies of the crown.

Gridders give Tofil 7th winning season

Traditional turfsters. The limelight draws the attention of senior football players at the close of the "season of hard knocks" as they trade pads for pride. Senior stars of '60 are Row 1: Norman Donovan, Charles Harris, Darrell Lawson, Dave Shepherd, Dave Hazelwood, Larry Morton, George Patterson; row 2: Richard Boarman, Bob Leeper, Frank Johnson, Toby Frost, Ken Corey, Randy White, and Victor Combs.

Desire led the way and converted the 1960 football season for Coaches Joe Tofil and Jerry Oliver as well as for the team. With an uninitiated line supporting a fast backfield, Continentals at one time boasted a 3-0 record. After stomping through tough competition, our gridgers closed with a 5-4-1 record. Injuries and inexperience hindered the team; but, being the fighting Continentals of Washington, the team finished the season with a show of glowing desire throughout the final game clash with Cathedral High School's "lucky Irish." Matchless attempts at success on the field merely symbolize the enlivened spirit of our Continental football team in action.

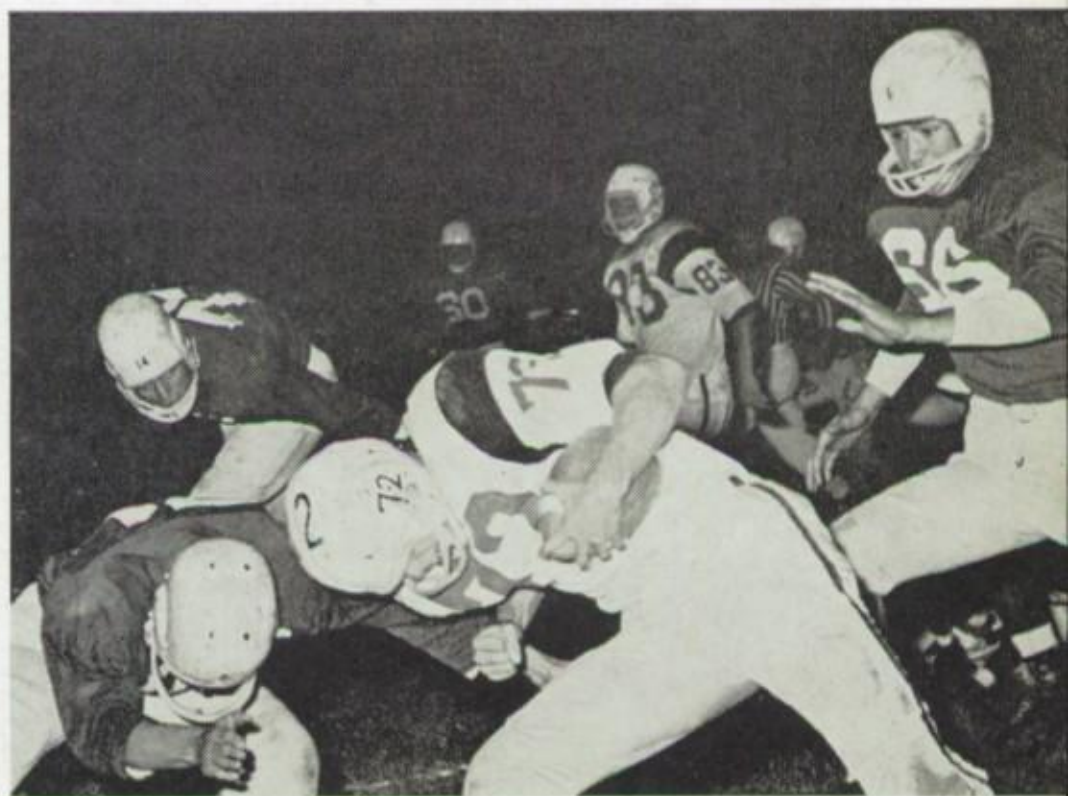

Beware! Tofil's toughies charge out of the locker room for a night of chain rattling.

Diet: nails? This group of turf ticklers is known as the Varsity Football Team. Row 1: R. Boarman, D. Lawson, C. Harris, T. Frost, F. Johnson, D. Hazelwood, D. Shepherd, N. Donovan, L. Morton, G. Choo choo! Locomotion seems to be the thing as five Howe gridders pile upon the cow catcher.

Dick Harmening, in his second year at the helm of the reserve squad, turned in a creditable record of 5-2-1. The future varsity had impressive wins over Broad Ripple, Ben Davis, and Scecina. Tech and Howe also proved to be worthy opponents before falling in front of our B-team. The season openers were battles between well-matched teams as both the reserve and freshmen fought the Manual B-team and frosh to a 6-6 and 13-13 tie, respectively.

The Little Purple, under the guidance of coach John Williams also beat back Broad Ripple, Scecina, and Howe. In addition, they won over Shortridge and tied with Ben Davis. The frosh ended the season with an impressive 4-2-2 record similar to the reserve record.

"Meet the whole darn courageous Washington Continentals--the fightin'est team in the Indianapolis Sectional Basketball tourney." (Jim Angelopolous, Indianapolis Times, February 25, 1961) Those chosen to participate on the Varsity Basketball Team include Row 1:

"Sorry but it's my turn now." Robert Murff tries to gain control of the ball while teammate Jim Knobel moves in to assist him.

"Let me through!" Robert Leeper dribbles around as Robert Murff and Jim Knobel screen for him.

Courage was the keynote of the 1961 basketball season. During regular play, the team only managed to attain a little better than average record. But, at the sectional, Oliver's hoopmen seemed unimpressed by the power of higher rated teams until the semi-final round of play when they bowed to Cathedral, the second ranked team in the state. After trouncing Broad Ripple, our under-rated hoopsters faced North Central, the County Champs. The game was a see-saw affair, until the scoreboard showed 14 seconds remaining and the Continental minute-men 4 points behind. Jim Rhodes, playing with multiple injuries, dropped one to close the lead to 2 points. Then, with two seconds remaining, Clark Dickerson was given two free throws on a charging foul. He calmly sank both shots throwing the game into an overtime. In the extra session, Joe Purichia, who scored a near sectional record of 32 against Broad Ripple, tallied 6 points of our 8 point victory.

"Volleyball anyone?" Robert Leeper attempts to tip it out to Jim Rhodes who is ready to grab and go.

coach, Clark Dickerson, Jerry Fultz, Richard Harrington, Randy Payne, Jerry Sanders, Robert Bryant, and Lou Moneymaker. Dickerson dressed varsity for several games during the season.

Frosh hoopsters. The Freshmen Basketball Team includes Row 1: J. Belser, G. Selvester, R. Komlance, C. Schaffer; row 2: R. McConnell, coach, D. Strayhorn, J. Housel, C. Barrick, D. Panarise, D. Federspill; row 3: E. Foster, S. Slauter, K. Obergfell, S. Midkiff, B. Patterson; row 4: J. Dowdell, S. Kitchens, D. Fora, D. Alsen, and D. Morgan.

Freshmen and Reserve basketballers both enjoyed successful seasons as the freshmen carded a 9-8 record which may be compared to the reserve record of 10-9. The frosh showed their power as they outpointed teams from Attucks, Speedway, Broad Ripple, Ben Davis, and Sacred Heart. The Reserve B-ballers bested each of their last five opponents by 11 points or more. In the Reserve City Tourney, the Harmening men won the first round over Broad Ripple before bowing to the Shortridge Blue Devils.

White captures state title

Randy White, outstanding senior grappler, climaxed the '61 wrestling season by capturing the State title in the 120-pound class. Randy was quick to give credit to coach John Williams. White, four-year varsity member, was one of the three senior grapplers; the other two were Ronald Briley and Russell Young. Both reached regional competition before bowing out. With most of the men returning next season, Washington may be a wrestling power again next season. Keeping the boys in top physical condition, Joe Tofil, reserve coach, enables boys to wrestle within their own weight range.

Victory smile. Coach John Williams and Randy White, senior, elate over Randy's state wrestling victory.

Overland Express! Dennis Grider and Dan Jaquess display winning form as they eat up miles.

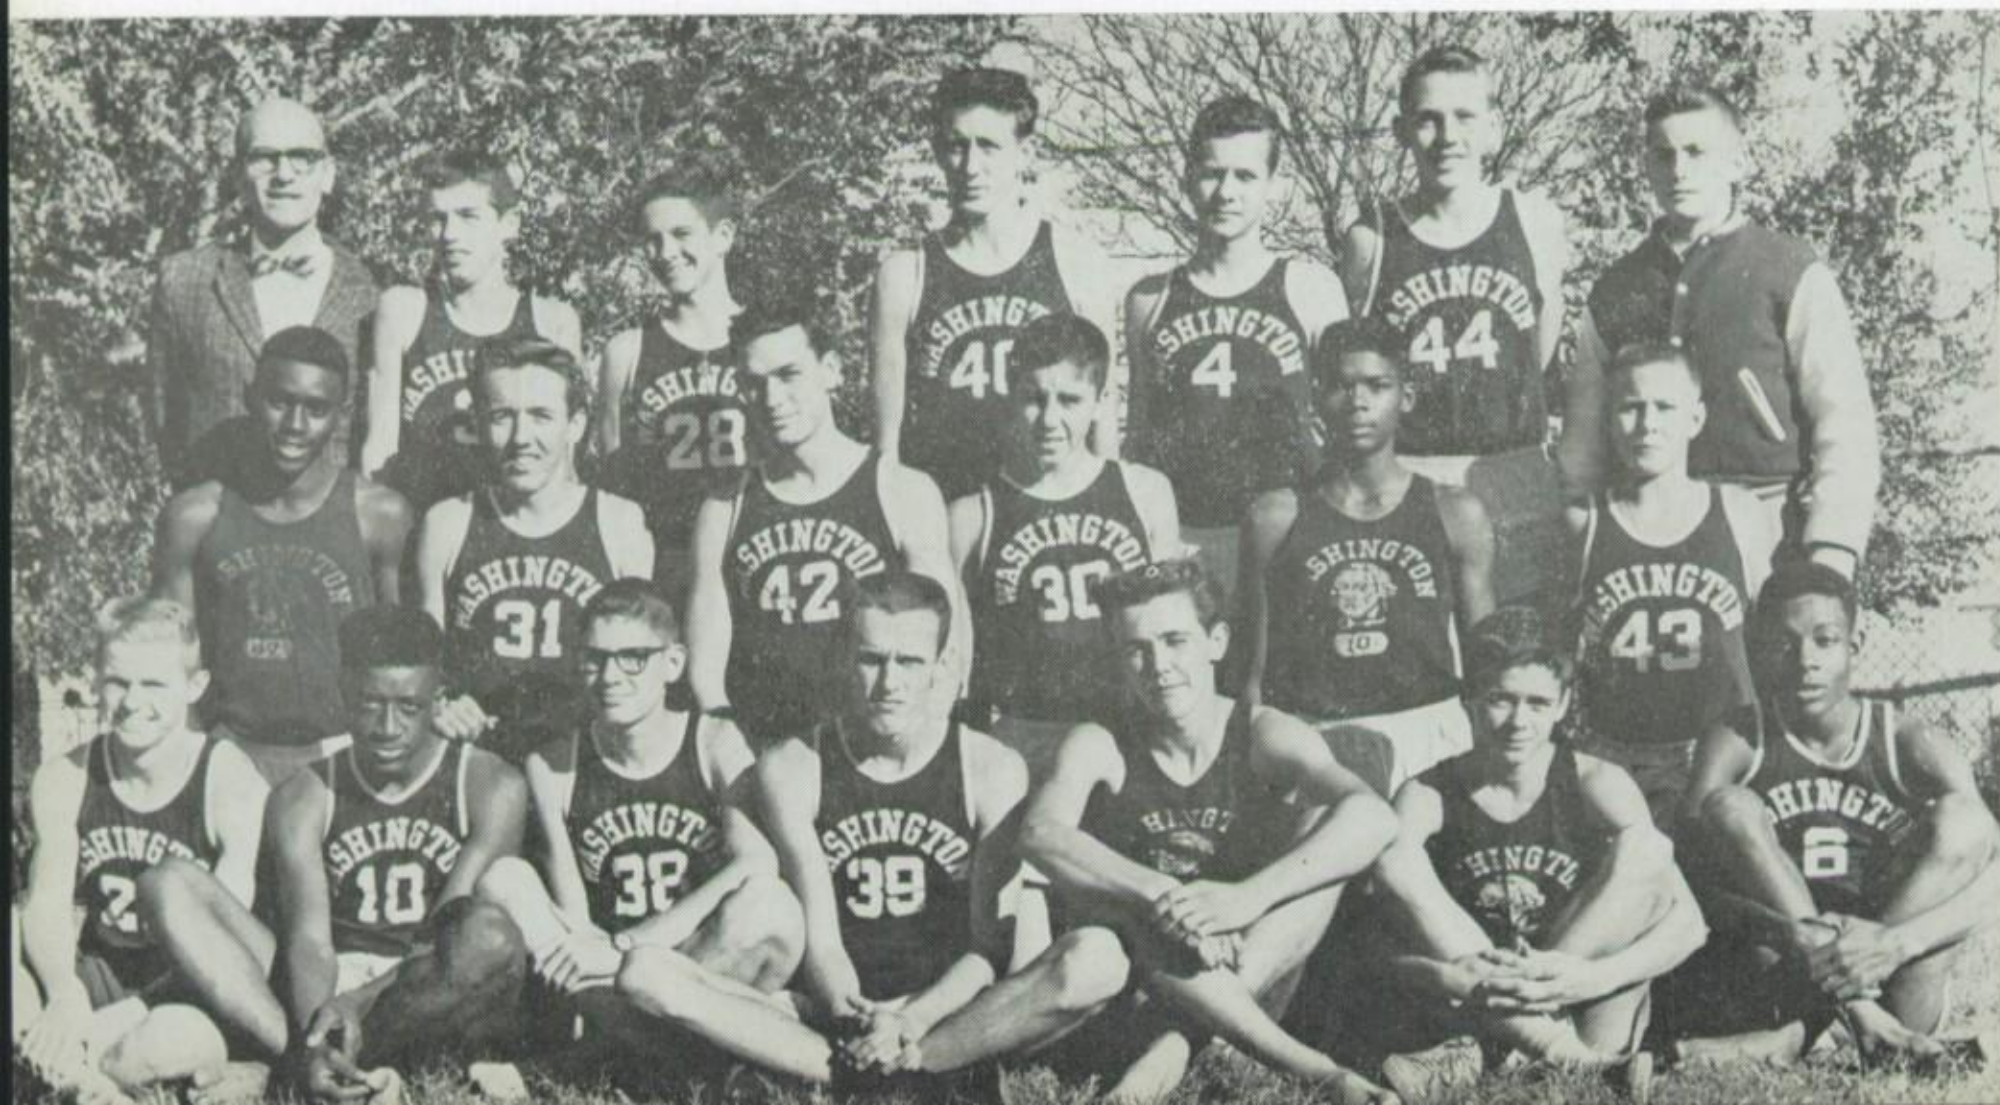

Showing the strength and desire needed for a successful season, Washington's cross country team placed sixth in the sectional. Earlier in the season, team effort placed Continental runners third in the city. In a dual meet at South Grove, these turfsters beat the city champs. Our team captured the Columbus Invitational.

Following in their footsteps, the reserve runners placed second in the city. Showing promise for the future, the freshmen team backed Dennis Grider as he captured the number one spot and led his team to a city crown. Coach Haynes brought additional honor to Washington by his election to Secretary-treasurer of the Indiana Association of Track Coaches.

Marathon candidates? Regularly running the Rhodius Park area are members of the cross-country team. Team members are Row 1: Dan Jaquess, Earnest Stennis, Craig Johnson, Jim Loviscek, John Kidwell, Dennis Grider, Clifford Artis; row 2: Lonnie Radford, Ken

Pole vaulting pair pace city meet

With seniors in the lead and underclassmen right behind, the '61 track team won six dual meets and lost two. Several boys broke school records this year. Leading the parade was Ken Corey setting the pole vault record at 12'6½" with Tom Benson right behind with 12'3." Next was Bob Leeper in the 440-yard dash with a time of 51.9. Bill Hattiex, only junior record breaker, threw 52'1½" in the shot put. Jim Loviscek, was close to a record in three events; his bests were 15.7 in the high hurdles, 21.4 in the low hurdles, and 6'½" in the high jump.

He's over! Ken Corey, who holds a school record in the pole vault, is a consistent 12-foot vaulter.

Coached by Frank Munshower, the reserve baseball team gained revenge from a 10-4 spanking at the hands of Columbus when they came back to swamp Shelbyville, 11-1. The rookie coach sought to build his reserve material into varsity quality.

Alan Hamilton, freshmen track coach, was also a "freshman" in coaching as '61 was his initial attempt. As is often true in many freshman sports, inexperience didn't prove to be a handicap because freshman boys made up our reserve team in most events. Jim Coffman, freshman record holder in the low hurdles, in addition to running reserve and freshman, ran second man on the varsity squad. Dennis Grider and Mike King were outstanding in their events, the mile and the 100-220 yard dashes.

Baseball, our national pastime, is also a favorite sport at Washington. Frank Luzar, veteran coach, was varsity mentor again last season. Under his supervision, the team rolled along successfully. The varsity baserunners began their season with a defeat to Columbus in a close one, 3-2. In the next game, however, revenge was theirs as they stopped the Shelbyville nine, 9-4. The loss of half of last year's team opened the way for underclassmen to shine. This number of underclassmen insures winning seasons for the team in future springs.

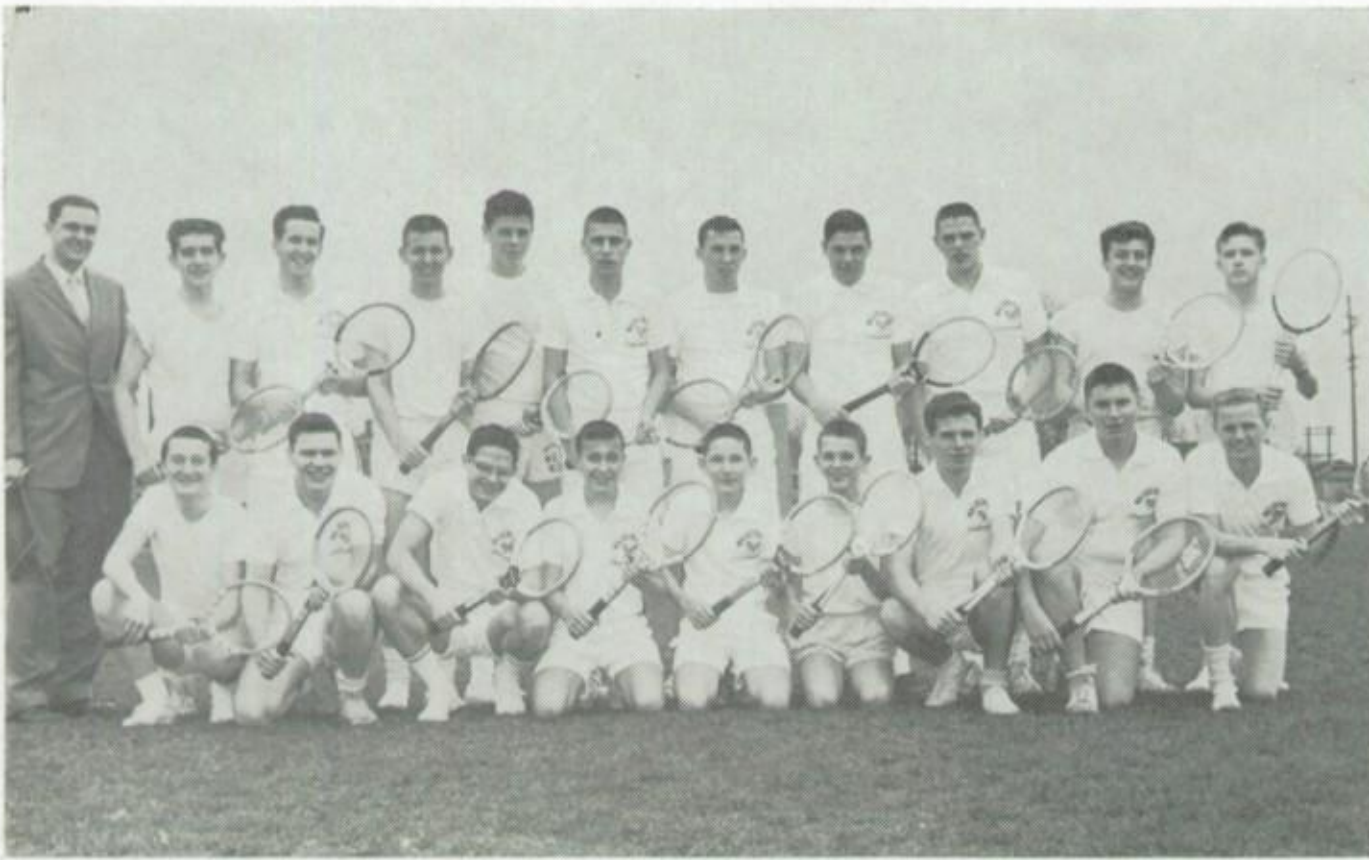

"Keep your eye on the ball!" Players Carl Froedge and George McGowen demonstrate varsity form.

"40-Love!" Mr. Dixon and racquetmen gain valuable experience through second year competition. Row 1: Richard Roberts, Dave Wollen, Allan Gery, Richard Parks, Richard Gardner, Jim Stoebeck, Jim Howard, Mike Leak, Dan Jaquess; row 2: Herbert Dixon, coach, Mike George, Ron King, William Russell, Allen Derringer, Ken Drake, Dave Horner, Doyle Baker, Robert Calbert, Tom Bailey, and Dale Summitt.

After sixteen years, a tennis team has again become part of our sports system. However, because tennis is not a sport that can be mastered in one short eleven-week period, inexperience was a telling factor as the racquetmen faced the roughest of opponents. When the training period and season came to an end, fourteen underclassmen offered the team a strong backbone for the coming year.

Starting with an optimistic outlook for the season, the Continental golf team showed victories over all opponents, except Crawfordsville, up to the city-county meet where they placed fifth with a score of 329. In the fall county meet, our team placed second with a score of 308 which was just five strokes behind Broad Ripple with a 303 score.

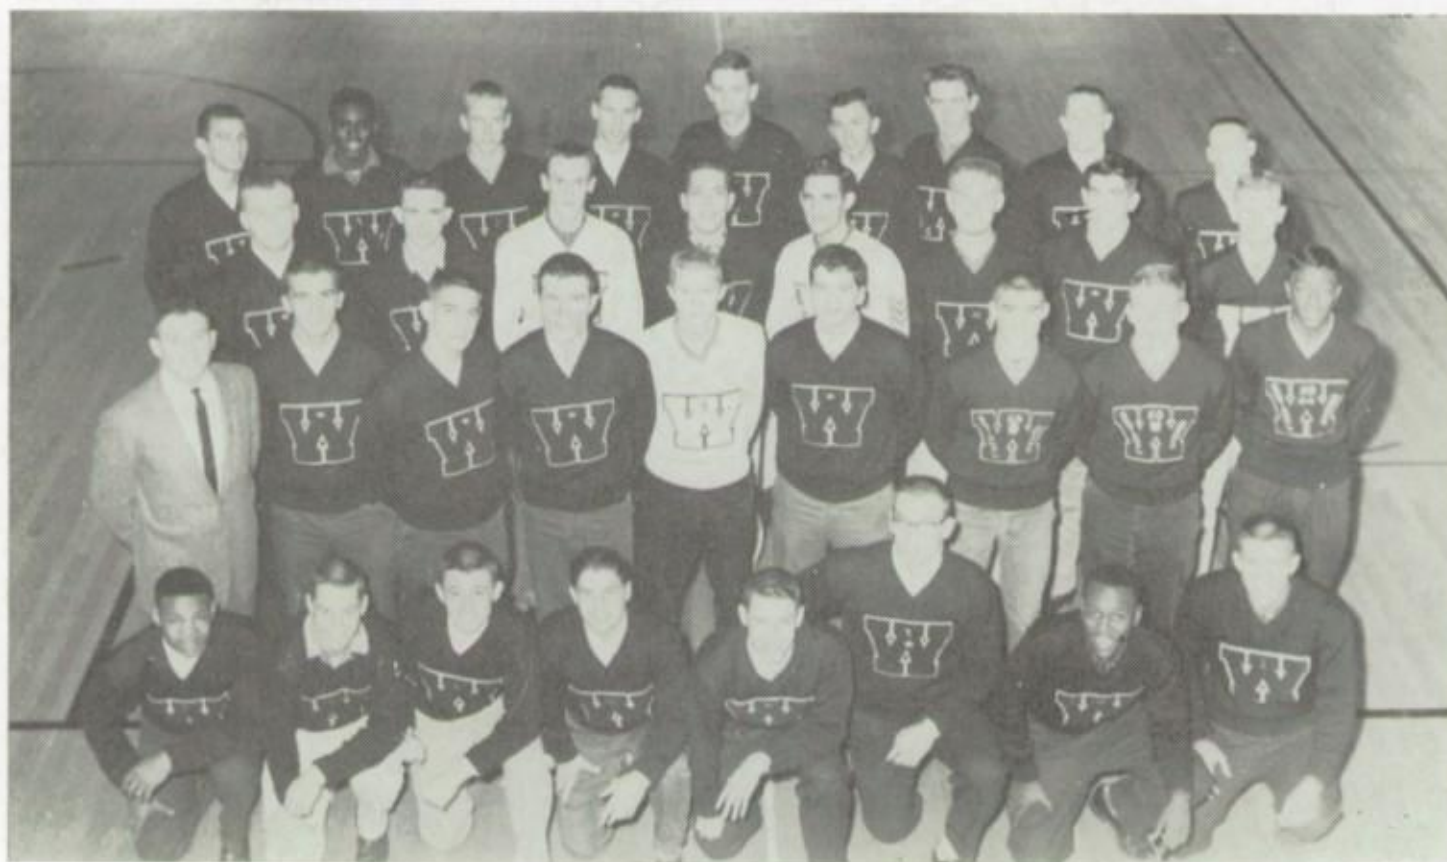

Because of the absence of an intramural league this year, the league champions were replaced by the senior members of the Lettermen's Club in the faculty's traditional playday. But, while the faculty "five plus five" were practicing, our valiant lettermen were capturing honor on the field of battle. When it came time for the highly talented game, the lettermen hadn't had a single practice in contrast to the extensive training of the faculty. Although basketball letter-winners were barred from the game, the coaches were allowed to participate. The boys in block "W" sweaters stood against the odds refusing to say "die." In spite of great effort on the part of the students, the faculty, led by Richard Harmening, won by eight points.

Scoring a strike. Officers of the Continental bowling league, Paulette Fry, Linda Stycken, Lana Eisele, and Tom Eisele, record their teammates' progress.

Promoting higher standards of health and sportsmanship, the Continental Girls' Athletic Association urges girls to take advantage of the opportunity to further their formal physical education. Offering friendship, fun, and instruction to active members, the CGAA helps girls to accept responsibility in organized activities and unsupervised activities to earn points toward the goal—a state plaque. Finding sport in ten sticks and a sphere, Continentals go “all out” for the CGAA sponsored bowling league. The co-educational league proved again to be an overwhelming success.

Adding to the excitement and spirit of athletic events, nine Continental cheerleaders led Washington fans during a rough gridiron season. Their vigor and enthusiasm continued throughout the basketball competition. However, at the beginning of the hardwood season, the squad no longer existed as one unit, but was divided into two. The six seniors serving on the squad cheered at varsity games while the underclassmen led the reserves. Leading the student body and backing the teams were not the only functions performed by the "Continental nine." They also planned pep sessions and presented skits which boosted the morale of all.

"With a W." Continental varsity and reserve cheerleaders include Karen Turner, Bonnie Dodd, Mary Parker, Mary Ann Martin, Ken Turpin, Joe Hendricks, Pat Miller, Eva Walker, and Pat Pritchett.

Looking over the plans of the Senior Class are officers Randy White, sgt.-at-arms; Denny Dennett, treasurer; Ruthann Leach, secretary; Brenda Kemp, vice-president; Jim Loviscek, president; and Jim Myers, sgt.-at-arms. The officers are chosen early in the year by the vote of the Senior Class members.

Senior VIP's plan '60-'61 events

Leading the '61 Seniors to graduation, the class officers originate and organize most senior activities. Taking office in early fall, the president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and two sergeants-at-arms select a committee to assist them in planning events. Special committees organize and work with the officers to offer seniors an eventful and exciting year.

Adopting the theme of "Pirates Ahoy!", the Capers offered fun and excitement to Continentals. Accepting their crowns at the climax of the popularity contest, Bold Buccaneer and Pirate Pearl took their place among the year's royalties. Games, refreshments, and shows sponsored by the faculty and students boosted the tickets sales to record-breaking status.

Pirates Ahoy! Senior Judy Tackwell and her shipmate Jim Arvin reign as Pirate Pearl and Bold Buccaneer, royalties of the '61 Continental Capers.

Beauties give Awards Day regal touch

Reigning over all activities of Awards Day, the Awards Day Queen presents class achievements to Continentals during two morning convocations. Receiving her crown in the festive afternoon assembly, the queen aided by six members of her court then distributes major and honor awards to seniors. Nominated by the '61 class, the queen and her court are elected by the entire student body.

Queen for a day. Highlighting the Awards Day festivities and distributing awards to pupils, Queen Judy Wampler adds a touch of royalty to the day.

Junior Royalty. Candidates for Junior Prom Queen are Judi Olsen, Marsha Brown, Sandra Marsh, Maxine Kennedy, and Sylvia Popcheff. Candidates for Junior Prom King are Bill Pinkston, Mike Guffin, Jim Knobel, Bob Clark, and Joe Purichia. The couples danced to the music of Nick Craig in an Oriental atmosphere.

“Open prom” highlights junior year

Electing a group of officers to cooperate with junior sponsors in planning the year's activities, the Junior Class often met during roll call to discuss problems and make plans for ordering class rings, planning the Junior Vaudeville, and organizing the Junior Prom.

Highlighting the year's activities, the Junior Prom completed the third year at Washington. Dancing to music and whispers, juniors received their first glimpse of formal activities. Thus, the Junior Prom became the background for promoting enthusiastic seniors in '62.

"Aloha!" Mrs. Burdeen Schmidt, vaudeville director, gives helpful hints to performers in the Island scene.

Vaudeville plays to full house

"The Charge of Blight Brigade." Karen Turner, Kenny Drake, Joe Hendricks, and Brenda Williams play the lead characters.

Broadway beauties. Linda Myrick and Jeanette Lutz entertain Continentals.

becoming a part of the "Washington Way"

"Congratulations." Mr. H. H. Walter congratulates Mr. Cloyd J. Julian as he assumes his new role as chief executive of Continentaland.

Advancing to the position of head administrator, Mr. Cloyd Julian assumed the responsibilities and prestige of being principal. Former principal Mr. H. H. Walter vacated his office in December to help organize a new high school. Stepping in to fill the vice-principal position vacated by Mr. Julian, Mr. Guy Mahan, a young executive, worked with experienced vice-principal Mr. Justin Marshall. Assisting and guiding, the administrators and faculty devoted their time and effort to help pupils plan their programs, select a college, and solve personal problems. Working closely with the "upper three," the faculty, counsellors, and office staff helped to maintain an efficient and proud school.

Dual "chief executives" share

Deans. Mr. Audie Watkins, dean of boys, and Miss Leunice Horne, dean of girls, offer counselling services to Continentals seeking advice.

The Guiding Light. Mr. Donald Kramer assists freshmen Cheri Hinderliter, Fred Hulsner, and Mary Stephens with their programs.

School Managers. Working in the main office and attendance office are Mrs. Aileen Dickman, bookkeeper; Mrs. Connie Baldwin, Mrs. Wilma Crippen, clerks; Mrs. Grace Arvin, secretary; Mrs. Florina Hendricks, clerk; Mrs. Evelyn Farmer, adult assistant; Miss Margaret Hannan, secretary; and Miss Annie Harrison, stenographer.

Mrs Winters,

It's really nice to know someone like you. A person who really cares about me.
I know you do because you felt so strongly about the time I didn't attend school. Your lecture made me understand exactly what was wrong with not coming to school and I was sorry afterward. You really swell and may all your problems be small ones.
Remember me and remember my small ways of showing affection go to the ones who I appreciate the most.

Best wishes
Eva Walker

Mrs Winters
It's really nice fun being here hesitant to put a lot and want to thank you very much. You're a wonderful person and I think so much of you. I have everything wonderful comes to my mind. I want to say that I want to come see you and you always see you often may
Best wishes

Mrs Winters enjoyed the really interesting you have seen better
I'll be all of us know you'll make the best of it and always be

Mrs. Winters,

Thanks for all the advice. I really had fun on the cheerleading squad. I only wish I could do it again next year. I promise to come back and visit you so please don't forget me.

Good Luck Always

Karen Turner
